CO-OPERATION IS THEME AT DINNER

is up to an employer to take an interest in everyone in his organization."
Following the introduction of Clyde Snider as the toastmaster by Fred W. Bracken, chamber president, Bishop Arvel Child of the L. D. S. second ward, gave the invocation and Mr. Snider introduced the guests from nearby areas.
George C. Henneman, chairman of the city council, said "This organization stands for the progress of this community. The growth of the community is evidenced by the fact that we have an active chamber of commerce. We thank the chamber of commerce for its interest in the city government. We have always had the chamber's help and support."
With a repertoire of humorous stories, Mr. Snider continued the program with introduction of City Manager E. K. Burton, officers of the chamber and speakers.
President Bracken paid tribute to

J. L. Herriman for his successful administration of the affairs of the chamber of commerce during the last year and added that "The officers feel that if we can turn our administration over to our successors with as good a record as last year's officers we will have done well."
The president promised "We will welcome any individual or organization to appear before our membership. We will be progressive and will help in any community project. We hope to co-operate with our friends in the rural areas."
J. L. Herriman, the retiring president, said "We feel we have had a pretty successful year. There were some plans we did not get completed, but they will be carried forward by our successors. Our success in this community often overshadows the reason for that success—the fact that the people of Nyssa work together. In doing this they exemplify this spirit of co-operation. If we don't have the spirit of co-operation and unity we can't get done the things that need to be done. The thing that should be uppermost in our minds
