

Fire Takes Barn On Ditty Farm

SUNSET VALLEY, Sept. 8—Fire destroyed the barn of Mrs. Leota Ditty's farm in Sunset valley early Sunday morning. When Mrs. Ditty awoke about 3:30 in the morning the building was completely ablaze. The stock were able to get away from the fire and were saved. Neighbors battled the blaze, saving much of the adjoining property. Besides the building, 400 bushels of wheat and oats, 10 tons of hay, and a new $100 milking machine belonging to Mrs. Ditty's son, Robert Ditty were destroyed. Cause of the fire was unknown. Last week-end was a busy one for Mr. and Mrs. John Reffett. On Thursday, Darrel Leamon of Concord, California arrived to visit. On Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reffett and Miss Zeldia Weisman of Mountain View, California arrived for the week-end. Harry Reffett is a brother of John. On Sunday Miss Zeldia Weisman and Darrel Leamon, son of Mrs. Harry Reffett, were united in marriage. The vows were taken at 6 o'clock in the evening at Caldwell Seventh Day Adventist parsonage, with Rev. Garner officiating. Both the John Reffett and Robert Zeffett families were present for the ceremony. Mrs. E. H. Tolman and daughter, Geraldine, of Boise arrived Wednesday for a visit at the home of Miss Tolman's sister, Mrs. Grover Cooper. Mr. Tolman joined them Saturday for the Labor day week-end. THEIR EYESIGHT NEEDS PROTECTION TOO!

Traffic-wise, school children are guarded zealously. All manner of safety precautions have been instituted to protect tiny lives, but parents are sometimes careless in providing enough light to protect children's eyesight.

Plenty of good light in the home for their study and play helps prevent fatiguing eyestrain that drains youngsters' energy. Bright lights keep children bright. Try a 150-watt light bulb in study lamps, properly shaded against glare—a three-way 100-200-300-watt bulb in floor lamps—arrange for corresponding brightness throughout the house for better seeability.

You'll find when you protect the children's eyes, you are guarding your own and good light costs so little. Most any store stocks light bulbs. Buy them by the carton they're more economical that way and you'll have plenty of spares on hand.
