Resident Of Nyssa Area Among Last Of Civil War Vets

Michael J. Thralls, who lives on a farm between Nyssa and Ontario, is listed as one of the 17 remaining northern veterans of the American Civil war.

The 40 veterans of the war include 23 who wore the gray uniform of the southern states. The number represents a decrease of one-third in the last year.

The oldest union survivor is James A. Hard of Rochester, New York, who was born July 15, 1842. He was a private in company E of the 32nd New York infantry. The oldest confederate is John T. Graves, who lives at a confederate home maintained at Higginsville, Missouri.

Theodore A. Penland of Vancouver, Washington, last commander of the G. A. R., is the youngest survivor of the war. The northern veterans held their last encampment at Indianapolis last year.
