NEWS VIEWS

BY LEW HERRIMAN

There's a lot of talk about rocket trips to faraway planets... and some folks even signed up for passage sometime around 1975. That's looking far ahead and far away. Now we learn that a human might explode on the moon, melt on Mars, or be asphyxiated by Jupiter. We'd have a difficult time deciding which we preferred. Anyway, things aren't quite that bad on earth yet. Of course we don't know how they'll be in 1975. Like a fellow inheriting money, things change. It's a little discouraging, though, so we'll probably give up our ideas for the first hot dog stand on the moon.

A Los Angeles man who didn't like the dinner his wife prepared promptly crowned her with a carton of cottage cheese. She has one consolation, in that it might have been limburger. Don't console yourself driving around in an old jalopy. You can have a 1950 Ford if you hurry. Don't wait...NOW'S the time to drop in for a demonstration to HERRIMAN MOTOR CO. Phone: 77.
