We Need Less Representation And More Efficiency

The present unpreparedness of the United States is an indication that we have too many congressmen and senators in Washington. At first brush, that statement may sound unreasonable and silly, but consideration will show that the legislative body in Washington is so unwieldy, there can be very little efficiency.

With such a great divergence of opinions among such a great number of men, unreasonable power must be granted to the president and agencies of the executive branch in order to get any action that can be even remotely symptomatic of efficiency and effectiveness.

One senator and two congressmen from each state would be sufficient to give the people adequate representation. The reason some people want more representatives is to gain district advantages, which, in many cases are uneconomical and impractical, but the welfare of the nation means but little to those who think only of small districts.

A small number of representatives would give less attention to small areas, but that would be to the advantage of the nation. We have all heard the expression "Well, I don't believe in this paternalistic stuff, but the money is going to be spent so we might as well get our share".

We usually send intelligent individuals to the national congress, but some of the legislation indicates that not much intelligence is exerted in its behalf.

Our bureaucratic system, which is terribly unwieldy and expensive, would not be so large if we had a smaller congress that could function efficiently. The congress is giving greater power to the president because it is becoming a grotesque hodgepodge of factions that are unable to intelligently agree upon a comprehensive program of national improvement and defense and because of the great responsibility cast upon the president, he is forced to delegate more and more power and authority to the bureaucrats who operate under him.

This vicious cycle will probably not be concluded until the size of the congress is reduced and our congressmen and senators sincerely undertake to work for the welfare of the entire nation and assume the responsibility that is rightfully theirs.

Turns Black to WHITE with just ONE Coat!

... saves up to 40%

Think of what you could do with $60! That's what you save on the cost of repainting an average 5-room house with revolutionary Devoe ONE-Coat House Paint... a fact proved during four years of actual use on thousands of homes. It's the Hiding Power of Devoe ONE-Coat that does the trick. This amazing paint has double the hiding power of ordinary paints (36.4 hiding units in every gallon!).

Moreover, Devoe ONE-Coat lasts as long, or longer, than ordinary two-coat paint. And, all the time, it is making your home the whitest house in the block.

*The saving on repainting a house with 2100 square feet of paint surface. In some localities, where labor costs are higher, the saving would be even greater. For an estimate of how much you can save on repainting YOUR home with Devoe ONE-Coat visit or call Boise Payette. They will figure the actual costs—and savings—at no obligation to you.

House repainting, or any decorating job, may be financed on Budget Building Terms as low as $5 per month.

HERE'S PROOF

YOU SLEEP BETTER WITH ELECTRIC BEDDING

Heat is constantly escaping from your body. When it escapes faster than the body can generate it, YOU FEEL COLD.

Regular bedding, such as blankets, comforters and sheets do not give off warmth—they serve only to slow down the rate of body heat escape. The colder the surrounding air, the more covers are needed to retard that escape.

Covers are heavy, constrict movement while sleeping. Muscles resist weight, make it difficult to relax. POOR SLEEP—WEARINESS—YOU WAKE UP TIRED.

RESULT:

Electric bedding gives out heat... reduces body heat escape to normal. As surrounding temperatures change, thermostats automatically provide the right amount of warmth.

Electric bedding is lightweight—only one cover is needed. No depressing weight on body.

RESTFUL SLEEP—COMPLETE RELAXATION—YOU WAKE UP REFRESHED AND ENERGETIC.

Electric bedding is available at your dealer's now in a variety of colors and sizes to fit your own decorating scheme. It's easy to wash and take care of and it costs so very little to use electric bedding at Idaho Power's low rates.
