House Of Leslie Stoker Is Burned

NEWELL HEIGHTS, Oct. 19—The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Stoker was destroyed by fire last Friday. The fire, starting in the attic, burned the roof first, so that many neighbors, responding quickly, were able to save all of the household furnishings and personal belongings, except the furnace, bathtub and water softener.

part of their furniture and live temporarily in the small house vacated earlier by Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stoker.

Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Dewey and son, Howard, and his fiancée, all of Portland, are living in the small house on the Hugh Lamb farm and visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lou Pratt while here pheasant hunting. They arrived Friday evening and will stay several days. They brought with them a collection of slide film taken on their big game hunting trip through Africa last January. After returning from Africa they made a tour of Canada, so have done an extensive amount of traveling.

A TRIP THROUGH A PIG FACTORY

You are invited to attend the first showing of a 16-minute sound slide film in full color produced by the

RALSTON PURINA COMPANY

The picture, beginning with the tiny 30-day embryo measuring only one inch in length, follows the growth and development of the baby pigs until they are ready to be farrowed.

This picture is especially important in showing the value of nutrition in nourishing the fast growing embryo. It settles the old argument as to which is the most important time to feed a brood sow a good supplement.
