NEWS VIEWS

BY LEW HERRIMAN

Dr. Gallup, The Poll Man, says the U. S. must sell its ideals to the world. Like a smart hunting dog, he may have a point. Americans are probably the most generous people, as a race, in the world. Come flood, earthquake, fire, or any other catastrophe... and we're there with first aid. We pour resources into foreign countries and take it for granted these distant people will see we just want to help. But our generosity is twisted by enemy propaganda into something sly and enslaving. It's beginning to look as though if any thing nice is going to be said about us, we'll have to do it... fast.

In Terre Haute, Ind., a fellow named Donald Duck enlisted in the U. S. Air Force. And let's not have any smart quacks! Speaking of names, a good one to remember (and an easy one, too) is Texaco. You're always sure of the best at a Texaco station, and in Nyssa, it's HERRIMAN MOTOR COMPANY. Phone: 77.
