Social Security Benefits Climb
The number of old-age and survivors insurance beneficiaries in the 11-county area administered by the La Grande social security office increased greatly in the first six months after amendments to the social security act became effective last September.
A tabulation recently completed shows that as of February 28, 1951, there were 204 men, women, and children in Malheur county receiving $6,396 monthly. Vernon A Welvo, manager of the La Grande office, pointed out that the reason for the proportionately greater rise in amount of payments was that the new law, effective last September, not only made many additional persons eligible for payments but also very substantially increased the general level of benefits.
Calling attention to the fact that this federal insurance program provides not only old-age insurance but protection for the family in case of the bread winner's death, Welvo listed the following breakdown of payments in Malheur county: Retired individuals, 110 receiving monthly payments of $41,165; wives or husbands, 21 receiving $377;
