Along The EDITOR'S BEET

The person trying to tell us that things slow down around Nyssa during the summer months was talking through his sombrero. However, it could be that we're like the rest of the American people - maybe we're just hurrying up to get something done so we can hurry some more.

around going on at the produce houses this week too, as the new crop of spuds is being brought in for grading and shipment to market. The J. C. Watson Co. was the first to move potatoes on their way to market and several others followed later in the week. A new produce house is being built south of First street near the railroad by Beus Bros. who expect to have the building completed in time for part of this year's potato crop, so the construction crew there is really in a hurry.

Just to be different, we sorta hung around the office last Friday and Saturday and didn't even pop any firecrackers, but attempted to get caught up on some of the paper work that had piled up on the desk. The two holidays weren't enough, so we came back Sunday for a few hours and soon decided that there's always another day.

To keep the record straight and emphasize that the above is not a tale of woe, we'll have to admit that a lot of our time is non-productive. For instance, Nelson Bynon, who hails from coastal regions, took over as Linotype operator here, so we've spent a lot of his and our time gabbing about print shops in general and the printing trade in particular. John Daly, our ex-adman and printer, left last week for Roseburg where he will work as a printer, so we doubled up on our own duties this week. Dick Yost, recently of Tacoma, arrived Tuesday to serve as reporter and adman, so we went through the same thing of comparing notes and discussing the fourth estate, as well as making a few hurried trips around town on a get-acquainted tour.

To top things off, we're missing part of the broadcasts from Chicago where the Battle of the Century is being fought and have to stay up way beyond normal bedtime to listen to some of the radio commentators analyze the day's activities at the GOP convention. Later in the month, it will be the same thing all over again when we want to hear which of the "sure" candidates gets the nod from the delegates.

We're certain that the entire population will be rewarded if they've been going through a rough period in preparation for the rodeo which opens tonight. It will be our first opportunity to see the Nyssa show and all indications are that it will surpass any others here and many others in surrounding towns.

Members of the Oxyhee Riding club and Nyssa Chamber who have been putting in long hours and neglecting their own businesses are deserving of unlimited credit. There has been a lot of time invested in making plans and carrying them out to say nothing of the physical labor donated by numerous members of the Riding club to prepare the rodeo grounds for the big show while their farm crops wait for attention.

When you're sitting in the grandstand any of the three nights, just remember that a lot of people have done a lot of work to make the rodeo possible. It should also be remembered that those responsible are not expecting personal praise or reward and have done the work voluntarily and willingly. Each one has derived a lot of satisfaction in doing his part and had fun that goes with any work of that kind. The Nyssa Night Rodeo is a community project and should have the community's full support by a record attendance.

Shown here are three of the principals of the Nyssa Rodeo scheduled for July 10, 11 and 12. Left to right are Hobart Normand, El Paso, Texas, announcer; Harley Tucker, rodeo producer, and Karen Hansen, Shelley, Idaho, acrobatic-contortionist. Normand is rated as one of the top announcers in the business. Miss Hansen will thrill the audience with her wonderful acrobatic performances.

at a social afternoon last Wednesday at her home for eight ladies. Mrs. Harry Gardner gave a demonstration on cosmetics. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Mary James of Caldwell and Mrs. A. E. Lindsay of Wilder.

Former Nyssa Girl Weds

At a candlelight ceremony Friday evening June 20, Miss Twyla Louise Crawford, daughter of Mrs. Ethel Crawford, formerly of Nyssa, became the bride of Robert Broderick, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Broderick of Portland, at the Grace Manor in Portland. Dr. Harold Tuttle officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Wayne D. Morris, wore a gown of white slipper satin with a train, and a fingertip veil of nylon net and carried a bouquet of stephanotis and rosebuds. The bride's attendant, Miss Betty Maksinovich, wore a soft orchid formal and carried orchid flowers. Leonard Bennet, brother-in-law of the groom was best man. Music by a violin with harp accompaniment included "I Love You Truly" and a solo, "Because" preceded the ceremony. At the reception following the ceremony the bride's twin sisters, Mrs. Wayne D. Morris and Mrs. Oswald Forbes presided at the coffee service and punch bowl. The wedding cake was cut by Kittie Ferrante and Sally Junker was in charge of the guest book.

The bride chose as her going away ensemble a suit of white gabardine with navy blue accessories and a rosebud corsage.

After many good wishes and amid showers of rice and confetti the couple left on an extended trip through Yellowstone National Park and California. They are at home in Alberta and will reside in Portland after July 15.
