You still buy gasoline at 1925 prices

If you were to take a sentimental journey back into the mid-twenties by thumbing through a stack of old magazines, you'd find the page below in the Saturday Evening Post issue of July 4, 1925. Remember the square-topped cars of those days... with their flat windshields, wide running boards and big wooden steering wheels?

Remember the prices? Things were a lot cheaper than they are now when almost everything you buy is 'way up in price... except gasoline. Actually, gasoline costs almost exactly the same today—aside from taxes—as it did when the beauty above was an exciting new automobile. And it's far better gasoline, too. Two gallons today do the work that required three in 1925. Few industries can match this record of keeping prices down and raising quality. It was made possible by two things: intense competition among oil companies and a steadily increasing efficiency of production. In the last five years alone, Standard Oil Company of California has put more than $644,000,000 into facilities—and another $35,000,000 into technical service and research. This investment helps us make certain that gasoline continues to be one of the best buys in your family budget.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA plans ahead to serve you better
