Big Bend Pioneer Dies In Canada

Big Bend—Word has been received here of the recent death of Lollie Ekin at his home in Manville, Alberta, Canada.

He was one of a group of Illinois people who came west after Elbert Kirkpatrick became interested in building the Riverside ditch. Mr. Ekin bought 49 acres, hired it cleared and leveled and bought cabins from Singer Mining Co. that gave up its mining venture along the Snake river.

In 1903 Mr. Ekin and his bride returned from Illinois and both took an active part in helping build this community. About 1925 Mr. Ekin again became a pioneer and moved to Canada where he farmed on a large scale. A wife and daughter survive.

Funeral service were held at Salem.

"Feed My Lambs" Meeting Theme

"Feed My Lambs" was the theme of the two stake primary convention held Saturday in Weiser for stake and ward officers and teachers of the primary from the Weiser and Nyssa stakes.

Mrs. Charlotte Stringham and Mrs. Elwood Flinders conducted the meetings under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Stromness and Bernice Ekin, general board members of Salt Lake City.

A luncheon was served at noon. Places were laid for 30. Fall flowers furnished centerpieces and decoration.

Church Conference For Oregon Slated For Oct. 12-15

A state-wide program to strengthen religious leadership in Oregon's rural communities will be outlined for ministers, educators and farm leaders at a public meeting of the Oregon Town and Country Church conference at Oregon State college, Oct. 12 to 15.

This year's conference is built around the need for keeping pace with the changing rural community, according to Mrs. Mabel Mack, assistant extension director and general chairman of the conference.

Changes brought on by consolidation of schools, growth of part-time farming, migrant workers and modern farming including new economic trends are among topics which will be discussed by leaders in all phases of rural living.

The interdenominational conference is sponsored jointly by church and farm groups and Oregon State college, Community Grange, Farm Bureau, and Farmers' Union groups and county extension offices are among those cooperating to enrich spiritual life in Oregon communities.

Governor Paul Patterson will address the evening banquet October 13. Other speakers for the four-day conference include Rev. Dean Collins, San Francisco, western supervisor of migrant work for the National Council of Churches; Rt. Rev. Benjamin, Portland, director and lecturer for the Good Citizenship Foundation.

Dr. Paul Landis, nationally-known rural sociologist at Washington State college, will keynote the conference with "The Changing Rural Community." Dr. G. Burton Wood, member of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson's advisory committee and head of the department of agricultural economics at Oregon State college, will trace the impact of changing economic trends on rural communities.

Complete conference programs and housing information are available locally from churches, granges, farm bureau and farmers union centers and county extension offices.

Reorganization VA In Final Stages

Reorganization of the Veterans Administration, aimed at providing the most efficient service possible for veterans and their beneficiaries at the lowest possible cost, is now reaching its final stages.

Appointment of top assistants to important posts in VA have been announced by Harvey C. Higley, administrator of veterans' affairs. Harold V. Stirling, currently Higley's principal deputy, continues as deputy administrator of veterans' affairs, and serves as the executive officer of the agency.

Ralph H. Stone of Columbus, Ohio, has been named deputy administrator for veterans' benefits, heading up an important segment of the agency formerly under control of several assistant administrators. Stone has been with VA since 1945, serving as a branch deputy administrator at Columbus, and as manager of the Columbus district (claims and insurance) office.

Charles G. Beck, who was assistant administrator for insurance has been named deputy administrator for insurance on a permanent basis. Beck also was a branch deputy administrator at Chicago, and also managed the district office at St. Paul. He has had several years' experience as a regional office and hospital manager in Chicago.

Vice admiral Joel T. Boone, U.S.N. (MC) Retd., who had been serving as chief medical director of the department of medicine and surgery, continues in that important position, heading up hospitals, domiciliary and regional office clinics.

The purpose of the reorganization of VA management is to give greater local authority to managers of regional offices and hospitals in dealing with veterans and other VA beneficiaries, which include widows and orphans and dependent parents and relatives of veterans.

Plaid Sewing Pointers Listed By Specialist

After surveying fall fabrics, Janice Taylor, Oregon State college extension clothing specialist, finds that many of the plaids are unbalanced. Because they don't repeat exactly, more care must be taken to match pieces in home sewing.

Miss Taylor recommends choosing simple patterns when working with the new plaids. As examples, she listed all-round pleated skirts, boxy or cardigan jackets, and tailored shirts or blouses—all without intricate cutting details.

Another consideration in working with plaids is that more time will be required to lay out and cut the pattern and to put the garment together, she reminds. "Because the effectiveness of the plaid in the garment depends on how well it is matched, having poorly matched plaid can spoil the whole effect," the clothing specialist says.

She suggests the home economics extension bulletin, "Matching Plaids and Stripes," HE 2-330, as helpful to home seamstresses. It may be obtained from county extension offices or the bulletin clerk at Oregon State college.

Jim Skeen off on Church Mission

Jimmy Skeen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skeen, will enter the mission home in Salt Lake City Oct. 7 preparatory to leaving to fill a two-year mission to the Eastern states for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Skeen was the honor guest at a party given Friday evening by the Elders quorum of the Nyssa second ward with a gift shower. The evening was spent dancing.

A farewell testimonial was held for Skeen Sunday evening at the stake house. Those taking part on the program were Lorin Saunders, W. J. Beum, Pres. Arvel L. Child, Hubert Christensen, Mrs. Elwood Flinders, Mrs. D. O. Bybee, Mrs. W. A. Bybee, Joseph Flake, Gordon Williams, Maurice Glover, Jesse Elgan, Ellen Hunter, Janice Williams, Vela Dee Poulson, Wayne Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skeen and Jimmy Skeen.

Sunday afternoon, Jimmy was honored guest at a family get-together at the Skeen home. Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Proper Care Extends Life of Foam Rubber

Proper care of foam rubber can extend its life expectancy, according to Myrtle Carter, Oregon State college home furnishings specialist.

Because heat causes rapid deterioration of rubber never expose it directly to sunlight nor store it near hot steam pipes or heating devices, she warns.

Pillows or other small pieces may be removed from the outside cover and washed with warm water and mild soap, she says. To sterilize, spray or sponge with a mild disinfectant and put in a confined space a few hours. To dry, place in a strong draft, but away from heat. Miss Carter advises.

Vegetable stains can be taken out with soapuds and water, the specialist states. Mineral stains are removed with highly-volatile dry cleaner used lightly and sparingly. Miss Carter warns, She advises watching out for hydro-carbon type cleaning fluids or others that act as rubber solvents.

LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howe left Friday morning for their home in Berryville, Ark., after spending the summer visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Brown. The Howes formerly operated the Eastside Market here.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Schweizer and three children returned Wednesday evening to their home in Kennewick, Wash., after visiting two days in Nyssa at the home of Mrs. Schweizer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George McKee.

Mr. and Mrs. David Beers recently returned from a trip to California where they visited Mr. Beers' mother, Mrs. Tena Beers, and with other relatives in Sausalito and Watsonville, Calif. Returning with them was Mrs. Carl Seburn, who had been visiting in San Mateo, with her daughter, Marie Seburn, who is an airline hostess there.

Dinner guests Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Beers were Mr. and Mrs. Gahan and Mr. and Mrs. James Malloy.
