A Forgotten Pencil In Your House May Change Some Persons Life-or History

The power of the written word has long been extolled. How many beneficial and inspiring thoughts may be lost because of the lack of a simple instrument with which to set them down. The pen, we hear, is mightier than the sword. Yet a pencil will do just as well.

And if there is no pencil? There were few pencils in Korea and even the enlightened citizens were hereby forced to silence while there people were regaled by the propaganda of the invader.

The people of this country are among the freest in the world. There is no shortage of the pencil here. Yet there are many who have not this simple weapon to ward off the sword of aggression.

The Boy Scouts of Nyssa Troop 419 have undertaken to do what they can to help. They will conduct a pencil drive in Nyssa on Saturday, Jan. 30. The scouts will try to call at every door. Pencils for the drive will also be accepted at the Journal office and at Owyhee Truck and Implement Co.

It is possible that the pencil you donate may change the life of some person—or nation.

The power of the printed word, we find, also has its effect. At the time this printing over 100 pencils have been donated through the Journal office. This is in response to a story on the drive in last weeks paper.

Russell Differs With Report Given Journal

In the last issue of the Nyssa Gate City Journal (Jan. 21, issue), a story of sheep that were killed when struck by a car contained this sentence: "G. W. Stringer, of the Pine Sheep Co., owners of the band, reported that there was a man stationed behind and in front of the sheep at the time of the accident."

Frank Russell of Parma route 2, father of Francis Blaine Russell, the boy whose car collided with the sheep, objected to Stringer's report. Russell asserted to the Journal last week that there was not a man in front of the band of sheep. "He was instead," proclaimed Russell, "in the barrow pit."
