HERE'S WHY:

He believes that the legislative emphasis should be on home rule rather than on increasing bureaucratic control, and he opposes the trend toward a centralized state government.

He believes that there should be no increase in state spending which would result in a state property tax.

He believes that the industrial and irrigational interests of Eastern Oregon must be safeguarded in any Snake river development program which may be undertaken.

He believes that the federal plan of state legislative reapportionment is the best method of assuring the representation essential to good government in Oregon.
