Letter to Editor:

I received a letter from my sister in Kansas, who visited us last summer. She told about being speaker at a Roll call meeting on "The Most Interesting Place I've Been."

She said she talked about Beck's Island near Nyssa (Mel Beck took us to his island) and about the supreme flavor of fruit, grapes and melons grown there. She said she also told about her husband (who is a farmer) being so thrilled when Mr. Tobler gave him a sample of wheat and tagged it "From field yielding 97 bu. per acre," and about the friendliness of clerks in the Nyssa stores. She said she thought that Nyssa should be pronounced Nissa. She told about me naming my place Kanyssa, Ore., and that they address mail to me that way, which comes through.
