Music Clinic Ends Its 4-Week Course For School Pupils

Nyssa's four-week music clinic, conducted by Ralph Anderson, school system musical director, came to a close last Friday with a farewell party at the high school.

A total of 32 boys and girls had taken part in the extra-curricular course which taught everything from fundamentals of music to exchange instruments and orchestra conducting.

The classes were held throughout the day on Mondays through Fridays, and started last June 6. Anderson said that his students accomplished as much in the four weeks as they would have in a full semester of regular school.

Success of the clinic indicated that a similar course will be given next year, he said.

During the party following the ending of the session there was a softball game and refreshments were served.

Nyssa, Oregon

Long recognizing the need of our farmers for a dependable feeding advisor service, I am happy to announce that Tobler's has engaged Mr. Dwight Wyckoff to head such a department in the interest of the many farmers we serve.

Born and raised on a farm, a former director of "on the farm" training for veterans at Harper, Dwight, on July 1, resigned from the Nyssa school system to join our organization. For the past four years he has been vocational agriculture instructor for the school system.

In these columns, Dwight will faithfully report each week on the production records of poultry and livestock, and will make frequent trips into the fields to discuss personal problems with you. It is a pleasure to present Dwight Wyckoff, who will conduct these columns in the future as a service to our many friends.

Warm Weather Hen Management Tips

Keep hens comfortable during warm weather to avoid production slumps. Everything possible should be done to encourage birds to eat and drink. We suggest:

1. Check waterers to be sure there is sufficient cool, clean water at all times.
2. If birds ease off eating mash, begin top feeding Checkers once or twice a day to stimulate appetite.
3. Change from mash to Checkers-Et form of laying ration. Birds like it better—So eat more in hot weather.
4. Burn lights in the cool hours before dawn to encourage greater feed consumption.
5. Open laying house to make it as cool as possible. Insulation often pays big dividends in keeping birds cooler in summer, warmer in winter.
6. Avoid crowding through culling of broody birds and those in poor condition. Usually egg prices are low at this time of year, making it a good time to cull anyway.
7. Check birds frequently for lice and mites. Treat, if necessary, with Purina Lice Powder. Or paint the roost with Purina Poultry Insecticide.
8. Laying hens should be kept in the laying house and not allowed to run.

9. Waste grain should be given to pullets—not laying hens.

Purina Plan Grows Pullets at Low Cost

Many poultrymen have grown sturdy, well-developed layers on only 18 pounds of feed per bird on Purina's famous growing Chow and grain program. This program takes the birds from 4½ weeks to 20 to 24 weeks. Takes only 6 pounds of Growing Chow and 12 lbs. of grain on good range to grow the average pullet.

For feeding ease and uniformity of pullets many farmers prefer Purina Growena, a complete feed. Only 16 to 18 lbs. of Growena is required for the average pullet. Let's figure to see which program is best suited to your needs.

"Hogmen's Outlook Bright for Hogmen on Profit Plan"

Gil Fronig, manager of the Purina Research Farm hog and steer fattening units, says the outlook is still rosy for hogmen who follow a sound feeding and management program.

This year the experts look for the average price to be near the $20 mark. Peak prices are expected soon—in early or mid-summer. This means hogmen should push hogs fast to get them to early markets.

Let us help you switch your hogs to the Purina Program now. Gets hogs to market in 5 months. Takes only 5 bushels of corn or 305 lbs. of milo or 320 lbs. of barley and 45 lbs. of Hog Chow to make 100 lbs. of pork.

More than 32,000 pigs raised at the Purina Research Farm built this Program.

Results thousands of hogmen get prove it to be right.

Hogs Need Salt

Hogs without salt gained only half as fast as those getting it free-choice along with grain and supplement in recent tests. This work showed that a few pennies' worth of salt saver 287 pounds of feed worth $6.37.

Purina's Dr. Hobart Geurin says, "We've found it most profitable to mix the right levels of salt in the supplement and in a mineral mixture fed free-choice."
