

Owyhee Riding Club Members View Snake River; Enjoy 2-Day Outing

Twenty-five members of the Owyhee Riding Club returned Sunday evening after spending Saturday and Sunday on an outing to Hells Canyon. The group left Nyssa Saturday at 2:30 and drove in pickups to Weiser, Council and Cuprum, (pronounced Kewp-rum), Idaho.

En route they met Clark Neeley, who lives at Cuprum now after moving from Nyssa in 1941. Neeley farmed when he lived here but has turned professional photographer, artist and part time guide after studying eight years in this country and several years abroad. Of interest to Nyssans is the fact that Neeley is still a bachelor and liking it.

The group traveled on to a suitable camping grounds and a supper of potluck fried chicken, roasting ears, salads and cake was spread for the crowd. At 9:30, they were guests of Clark at a dance at Indian Head lodge. As is usual at those spur of the moment whing-dings, a marvelous time was had by all and anyone with music ability (?) took his or her turn at fiddling, cording or singing.

When the group returned to bed down for the night, straw was sailing through the breeze, night shirts were flapping and flash bulbs were recording the childish ways of grown-up people having a good time.

Sunday morning the men of the party cooked a ham and egg and hot cake breakfast. After burning the straw used for beds and throwing the night before was supervised by the fire warden, the group drove 12 miles to Kinney Point, where they viewed the Snake river from a 7135 elevation. The river was a mile below the point.

The women in the party were hostesses at a fried chicken dinner at the lodge Sunday afternoon, purchased with money from the popcorn machine during the rodeo. After dinner, they spent some time with Mr. Neeley, who was their guest for dinner, and viewed his pictures and portraits.

Most of the members drove back to Kinney point and down the six mile grade to the bottom of the canyon, crossed the Snake river on Ballard bridge and returned home via Robinette, Homestead and Huntington.

Members reported seeing a bear, a bobcat and having to fix one flat tire.

Willys Training Class Completed By Local Dealer

Dellin A. Erickson, of Owyhee Truck & Implement Co. has just returned to Nyssa from Santa Rosa, Calif. He attended a series of factory directed merchandising conferences.

With about 40 other Willys dealers, he learned all about the operation of the utility vehicles and the nearly 40 special attachments which have been adapted to them to perform a wide variety of agricultural and industrial tasks.

In addition to the utility vehicles, the dealer saw and operated such specialized four-wheel drive vehicles as the 1-ton Willys Commando Fire Engine, Jeep Fire Engine, Schenker Back Hoe, two types of ambulances and other equipment.

The "do-it-yourself" idea is applied to the hilt at the Willys training school, located at Fountain Grove Ranch, near Santa Rosa, Calif., Erickson reported.

He said that he and others did such chores as plowing, discing, harrowing, posthole digging, trenching, bulldozing, and a wide variety of other tasks.

"The hard work was well worth it," Erickson said "because I know I'll be better able to merchandise the Willys 4 wheel drive line in this area, and will be much better equipped to serve my customers."
