Potato Men Get Directors At
Tuesday Meeting

Members of the Malheur County Potato Growers association elected four directors Tuesday at the annual meeting of the group at Boulevard Grange hall. Maurice Judd, Jr. was reelected to represent the Adrian area; J. I. Hart, Harper, will represent the Vale area; Earl Winegar was reelected for the Ontario area, and Sam Hartley, Nyssa, was reelected as a delegate at large.

Proposed amendments to the federal marketing agreement were discussed at the meeting and will be presented at a hearing in Pocatello this week end.

Turner Bond, county extension agent and potato specialist; Marion Thomas, OSC economist; Dudley Sittin, Judd and Robert Eaton, U. S. Department of Agriculture, were on the speaking platform. Roy Hirai, Nyssa, was chairman of the discussion group.

NYSSA THEATRE

Two Nyssa high school Juniors have been elected to head the Bulldog staff for the 1956-57 school year. Cherie Toomb will be the new editor succeeding Pat Barclay, present editor and Mike Eastman will serve as business manager. Lyle Anderson is filling the latter office on this year's staff.

Miss Toomb is a member of Nyssa High school FHA, GAA and is historian for the Girl's League. She is president of the junior class, is serving on the student council, a member of the pep band for three years and played the clarinet in the high school band.

Eastman plays cornet in the high school band and is a member of the Hi-Y. As business manager he will have charge of advertising and finances for the Bulldog.

Father Improves In
Caldwell Hospital

Boyd Shafer of Wilder, father of Mrs. John Goddard, Jr., a former Nyssa resident has been confined in the hospital at Caldwell for the past several weeks from a heart attack he suffered just before Christmas.

According to reports, he is improving steadily and plans were to transfer him to his home this week for further convalescence.
