Camera Catches Bashful Barrister

By Bill Campbell

For sometime yours truly has attempted—in vain—to peg Harold Henigson as a "Man About Nyssa" The argument resolved its self into battle between the power of the press and the threat of immediate suit. But bless my speed graphic, I caught him in the act—of getting a hair TRIM. Facts about Hal are scanty. He was born. He apparently went to school. By dint of his powerful personality he became one of the illustrious officers of World War II—a second lieutenant. He moved to Nyssa from some place and is still here. He has more pipes than an organ. He has contributed much to this town in public service. He won't need another hair TRIM for some time. (The barber looking for something to clip is Lyle Miner). And we kinda like him. —Journal (of course) photo.

FOUR-SEASON HAPPINESS

The basis of Oriental philosophy is Balance Completeness—Beginning and End—Birth and Eternity—Male and Female—Brightness and Darkness—Bad and Good, etc. Therefore, in decorative art there is also the objective of Balance Completeness in order to have Harmony. This set of hand-wrought Iron Pictures is an answer to this human urge. The Plum represents Spring, Lotus—Summer, Chrysanthemum—Autumn, and Bamboo—Winter.
