"My harvest money goes into savings at First National Bank!"

This looks like a great harvest year for the Snake River Valley country. So far, crops and prices have been good, bringing extra money after costs are paid.

That means just one thing to the wise farm operator:

His First National Bank Savings account is the place for the balance after harvest expenses.

Whether you have crop money or wages, you'll find First National is the place for savings as well as being a "one-stop" center for every banking need. In addition to friendly service and "open-all-day" banking hours, you get the extra assurance of complete bank safety. Remember...there's no substitute for a bank savings account!
