Reds Enter Oregon Politics

Something new was added to the Oregon political scene last week with the distribution of a pamphlet by the Communist party of Oregon, which has its headquarters in Portland.
The six-page brochure is cleverly designed to appeal to the general public with its comments on many Oregon legislative issues similar to the stand of both Republicans and Democrats. Its only un-American comment is in a section castigating the capitalistic system and its taking credit for "Socialist ideas in Oregon", many of which are not considered socialist.
The Communist party apparently is not dormant in Oregon, nor has it been driven underground. This first mailing-piece should serve as a warning that efforts to spread the cause of Communism are not taking place "only in other parts of the country and in foreign lands."

Stranger In The County

By Bill Campbell

Remember how nasty the weather was last week? Rain and snow flurries meant no beets for awhile. Everyone is breathing a little easier the past few days with the return of clear, sunny days and the trucks are rolling again. In fact, since I started this paragraph—Tuesday afternoon—eight sweet-laden loads have rumbled down Main street. Oops! Now it's nine! This could keep up for ever, so we'll hope along with all the farmers that the weather holds up and the rain off.

I can prove just how seriously the officers of Amalgamated viewed the conditions last Friday. The board of directors met for lunch . . . and stood in front of the Polar Bear munching on hot dogs!

Writing this prior to the election donkeybrook. Our staff will have been on duty until the wee hours Wednesday morning compiling returns from the county and state aided by the Vale and Ontario papers and radio station. We're hoping the results—which you have no doubt read on the front page will be of interest to you. I'm pooped already and the battle hasn't even yet begun. (Four more beet trucks—I mean five—have just passed.)

Were you registered and DIDN'T vote?

Better not talk to Joseph E. Bair, 94 years young, who voted in the Arcadia precinct Tuesday. Mr. Bair, who has his farm on Columbia avenue remembers political rallies and battles when they were really something. There were torchlight parades, oratory and adjectives that make today's campaigns pink teas in comparison. As a youth in Richmond, Indiana he saw the soldiers returning from the war, remembers well Grant's election and every subsequent contest from that day to this. Mr. Bair who cracked a whip over a mule train and was a railroad man for many years was number 89 at the polls.

Joe, why didn't you wait and grab number 94?

It's lucky ministers can deliver sermons from their own notes. We wonder how Reverend John Brieהל's notes must read—considering that he lost out in a spelling Bee. And what a tough word! He merely spelled "stitch"—"stich!"

Maurie Corey who helps us out in the back shop on occasion when we get in a jam—late ads—late correspondance—late socials, etc. brought back a paper from Michigan and showed me a weekly, the Antrim County News.

He pointed out one little item in the "40 years ago" column that should interest the barbering Miners.

I quote:
"Benj. Yettaw, of Central Lake was in town Tuesday and we heard in a round about way that his visit was for the ulterior purpose of stirring up a horrid con-

W. Foster, Mrs. Paul Penrod, program; Celia Cowan, 8 p.m., with Mrs. Harold Kurtz as hostess, meets at the Charles Garrison home, Mrs. Walt Roth, program.

Will you please note the front window? Gone are generations of assorted bugs which once surrounded our linotype operators. I got so darn embarrassed I even cleaned off my desk. That was a couple of days ago and it's back to its usual state of confusion.

The dawn has come up like thunder and it looks like I'll drape my red-white and blue bunting around Ike's stickers on my car and go in to mourning on Doug. (Gulp).

And so it goes—some win, some lose, but our nation goes on and on.

Bye now, buy Nyssa.
