"What I Have for Projects and What I Have Learned From FFA"

By Lowry Flake

For my freshman year, I had one grade Milking Shorthorn heifer. She calved about the middle of the year, and the calf, a bull, went to father to help pay for the cow.

My sophomore year I had the cow plus one Shorthorn steer, five Columbia sheep, and the cow's bull calf which came near the end of the year.

My junior year, I had the cow, two Shorthorn steers, eleven Columbia sheep, and a heifer calf from my cow.

My senior year, I have one Milking Shorthorn cow, one registered Milking Shorthorn bull, two old steers and one steer calf, seven sheep, and twelve acres of crops. These include five acres of hay, five acres of pasture, and two acres of grain. I finally raised some crops, which I should have done sooner, to help support one days of rain in November were reported for this area. — The Nyssa Commercial club reorganized following a year of inactivity. C. L. McCoy is president. — Frank Fry was run over and injured by his auto Monday while trying to crank it.

35 Years Ago—Dec. 2, 1921

my animal projects. I also intend to add to these projects with more steers and more crop land.

What I have gained from FFA can be summed up under three headings. The first is leadership, the second is the ability to express myself, and the third is the making of many new friends and acquaintances. All of these things have been helpful and useful to me.

I have learned to conduct meetings, and to know parliamentary procedure. I have learned how to help on committees and how to do many other things which have developed leadership.

By participation in many activities, I have learned how to stand up and speak up, without unnecessary words. The speaking program of the FFA has been a source of knowledge, enjoyment, and education to me.

Through participation in speaking and other leadership, I have met many people who have much the same interests and abilities as myself. I have made friends with persons who I would probably never have met or known otherwise.

I have gained leadership, knowledge, ability to express myself, and have made many new friends besides. This is all important to me, for it is helping me to live a more complete and full life.

Those taking the trip were Bob Thompson, Paul House, Orin Sumner, Dr. Ken Kerby, Art Chapman, Cecil Morrison and Dale

Garrison. A total of 43 loads of food of all kinds, weighing 63 tons, were delivered in Portland Saturday after the group stopped in The Dalles Friday evening. Food was gathered from all towns in southwestern Idaho from Boise to Cambridge and in Malheur county.

Reports of the tour of the hospital were highly enthusiastic, including the fact that almost "hopeless" cases of physical disability through injuries and illnesses are being treated.
