Farm and Barn News and Views

By LeRoy Pulliam

The fatal-accident rate has been increasing on our farms in this country, according to a USDA tabulation of available data.

John Rush, Agriculture Research service economist, analyzed information from death certificates provided by the National Office of Vital Statistics. Fatality rates for accidents on farmland and about service buildings increased from 6.7 per 100,000 persons during 1940 to 1943 to 10.3 during 1949-53.

During the 14-year period, 30,521 fatal accidents occurred on United States farms. This does not include either disabling injuries or fatal accidents that occurred in the homes or off the farms, such as traffic deaths. Rush pinpointed the time and kind of accidents, the age group and states in which accidents were most frequent.

Machinery Casualties Lead

Of the farm accidents occurring between 1949 and 1953, the greatest cause in 43 states was machinery. Drownings were the chief cause of deaths in Arizona and Texas and firearms were the main factor in Rhode Island and West Virginia. Nevada deaths resulted equally from machinery, animals, firearms and falls. Other accidental causes included electricity, lightning and blows from falling objects.

The greatest number of fatalities occurred in the 15 to 19 age group, indicating that many young people had not acquired necessary skills or taken proper safety precautions in using farm machinery. Next greatest number of fatalities was in the 10 to 14 age group, followed by children under 5. The 20 to 24 age group was safest.

An earlier Indiana Agricultural experiment station study indicates more accidents occurred at 10 a.m. than any other time. Next peaks were at 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. when fatigue possibly reduces alertness.

About one-fifth of all fatal farm accidents during 1929 to 1953 occurred in the corn belt states. An eighth of the accidents were in the northeastern and Appalachian states. The largest number was in Texas, with 727; followed by Pennsylvania, 571; Illinois, 555; Iowa, 544; Wisconsin, 523; Missouri, 525; Ohio, 522, and California, 506.

National Farm Safety week is over—but, we hope, not forgotten. August is the month in which machinery fatalities are highest. August is here—be careful!

Sherrill McIntosh of Prairie City returned home recently after spending 10 days at the Audrey Ward home.

Barb McPartland Attends Oregon FHA Convention

Barbara McPartland State Secretary returned August 2 from the annual summer retreat of the executive council of the Oregon Association of the Future Homemakers of America which was held July 29-August 1 in De-Lake, Oregon. Special guests at several sessions of the retreat were the District chairman and members of the Advisory board. The meeting was composed mainly of various committee discussions and decisions for the coming year. Barbara's duty in this capacity was recording and compiling the minutes of all meetings, and serving on the 1957-58 budget committee.

Those attending were Joanne Kemble, state president; Nancy Kleeman, vice-president; Ellen Jeffries, vice-president of projects; Judy Case, vice-president of public relations; Barbara McPartland, secretary; Ethel Ralphs, treasurer; Helen Potwin, Historian; Judy Johnson, parliamentarian; Juanita Hawley, Editor, District chairman attending were: Nancy Choate, Eastern District; Carol Weaver, Southern District; Kay Bailor, South Willamette District; Maryann Peters North-western District. Advisory board members attending were: Mr. M. C. Huff, the State Superintendent of Schools; Mrs. Hazel Anderson, Adiser of the state president; Mrs. Edward M. Buck, Homemaker; Mrs. Estelle Van Cleave, representing Oregon Home Economics Association; Bertha Kohlhaugen, state Supervisor of Home Economics Education; Mildred Deischer, State Adviser; and Kay Corwin, representing the 1956-57 State FHA Executive Council.

Elma Shuck, Portland Homemaker Teacher, former state advisory board member, and FHA honorary member assisted in the kitchen.

While at this meeting, the state officers worked on the budget for 1957-58, the program of work for the coming year, how to improve public relations, problems of state publication, laid basic plans for the annual state meeting, discussed chapter and state records, and worked on constitutions and elections.

The district chairman worked with the district organization committee to solve some of the problems involved with the district fund, district kits, district constitution, and district meeting.

County Fair Nears

It is less than three weeks until the county fair and most of the 4-H livestock we have seen still need some training to make a good showing. Work with your animals for a few minutes every day; 15 minutes twice a day from now till fair time will work wonders.

Remember—all dairy and beef females over six months of age must have a health certificate. Work with your leader, so that all the animals within the club may be tested at the same time. They will need to be tested for bangs and tuberculosis. This testing may be done by a federal veterinarian if all animals in the club are done at one time.

Pre-registration of animals to be exhibited will allow us to arrange for the necessary stalls and pens. Again leaders of the livestock clubs will have pre-registration blanks and all entries for a club should be sent in together. Club members should see that their leaders have the necessary information to make proper entry for each animal to be exhibited.

It looks like we will have some exceptionally fine beef steers this year. Quite a few animals are reaching near the top already. A few of the club members who will furnish some tough competition include Junior Nagaki of Pioneer, Mike Pershall, Willowcreek, Linda Hipp and Dorothy Houston of Arcadia, and there are a number of other excellent prospects besides these.

Leaders Council to Meet

The August meeting of the Malheur 4-H leaders council will be held at the county agent's office in Ontario next Monday, Aug. 12.

Main business will be participation at the county fair. Most of the discussion will center around exhibits and contests, although some time will be devoted to planning an exhibit booth and on arranging for a concession booth. Details of livestock exhibits will receive particular attention.

Livestock Field Day Held
4-H members with projects in dairy, beef and sheep received instructions on fitting and showing their animals at a livestock field day last Monday.

Clayt Tschirgi, livestock breeder from Fruitland, and George Bain, extension agent, showed club members how to fit and show their beef animals. H. R. Sand-

10 Pounds Feed Wasted Per Bird

Poultrymen too often think in terms of profit as the price per dozen instead of the cost of producing a dozen eggs, declares A. D. Reed, extension economist at the University of California.

In 40 out of 96 ranches studied, Reed claimed that records showed a waste of more than 10 pounds of feed per bird. He said that a hen should consume from 90 to 100 pounds of feed per year. Once the grower goes beyond this figure, his efficiency is decreased.

"Sure Cure" Idea Given for $10

Want a sure way of getting rid of Canadian thistle, without using either chemical or plow?

The "Wheat Pool Budget," a Calgary, Alberta, publication complained about the trick that takes $10 to learn.

American publications circulating in western Canada, the Budget said, offers the sure-fire method of getting rid of the weed if you send in a $10 bill.

The advice offered for the 10-spot: "Use a hoe!"

Adrian FFA Holds Summer Meetings

Adrian FFA chapter held the second meeting of the summer Monday evening at the Adrian high school.

Incoming freshmen were invited to observe the proceedings of an FFA chapter meeting. President James McKinley presided over the session.

Arcadia 4-H Club Meets at Seburns

The Arcadia 4-H livestock club met July 21 at the Carl Seburn home.

Members discussed plans for the annual swimming party and weiner roast to be held at the Ontario park.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Carl Seburn. The next meeting will be held Aug. 8 at the LeRoy Pulliam home.

quint, extension agent, demonstrated sheep fitting and showing and Lew Johnson, dairyman from Vale, handled the dairy demonstration.

This information will help club members prepare their stock for the county fair.

Special Awards Set
The scholarship committee of the Malheur Guernsey Cattle club visited 4-H dairy projects last week to check on progress. Condition and care of the dairy animals will have an important bearing on selecting the winner of the registered Guernsey calf to be awarded by the club at the county fair.
