

Development Clinic Set for Boise

Representatives of Nyssa's Industrial committee will attend the Industrial Development clinic to be held in Boise March 27. Hugh Tobler, chairman of the Chamber industrial development group will head the local delegation attending the all-day workshop sessions.

Idaho's Governor Robert E. Smylie will talk at the luncheon session on "The Part State Government Plays in Industrial Development."

Panel discussions will also take place featuring five industrial development authorities.

The Industrial Development clinic is being sponsored by the Western Idaho-Eastern Oregon Industrial Development Council in cooperation with local Chambers of Commerce and the Idaho Department of Commerce and Development.

NHS Junior Class To Present Play Friday Evening

The juniors of Nyssa high school will present their class play Friday, March 14, beginning at 8 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. It has been announced, "The Red Key, a one-act play, will precede the three-act production, "A Murder Has Been Arranged."

Students portraying the characters in "The Red Key" are Tim McGinnis as Nicholas; Joan Maulding as his house guest, Karen; and Carol Cooper as his insane sister.

Playing in the three-act play are Burton Smith, Charles Jasper; Pat McWilliams, Frances Mullins; Laura Hust, Miss Groze; Dan Wilson, Cavendish; Gretchen Rinehart, Mrs. Wragg; Roger Bergam, Jimmy North; Helen Winter, Beatrice Arthur; Marilyn Oden, Mrs. Arthur; and Doris Benedict, a woman.

Tickets are available from any junior student.

Lions Members Have Meeting

Lions club members met Monday noon at Carl's Doll House for their regular business session. Lloyd Wilson was program chairman. A film, "Big Game Hunting in Alaska," was shown to the group.

Discussion of Nyssa members making visitations to other clubs was the main topic of future projects.

Nathan Kimball of Yakima, Wash., visited Wednesday at the home of his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Wieneke.

Humorous Titles And New Novels Greet the Public

A new novel by Betty Smith and several humorous titles head the list of books going into circulation Saturday, March 15, at Malheur county library.

"Maggie—Now" is a new novel by Betty Smith, author of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," telling the story of a girl growing up among the immigrant Irish and Germans of Brooklyn, who with her own need to be needed attracted leaners, even in her choice of a husband.

"The Dog Who Wouldn't Be" by Farley Mowat describes the exploits of a dog the author knew in his youth: Mutt was meant for other things; as a dog he was only making the best of it.

"You're Stepping on My Cloak and Dagger" by Roger Hall relates adventures in the OSS, told in a humorous vein.

"Twisted Tales from Shakespeare" by Richard Armour is a humorist's views "in which," the sub-title tells us, "Shakespeare's best-known plays are presented in a new light, the old light having been a fuse . . ."

"As Far as My Feet Will Carry Me" by Josef Bauer recounts one man's escape from a Soviet prison camp to which he had been sentenced for 25 years of forced labor and his three-year flight across Siberia to freedom.

"The Scent of Fear" by J. H. Williams is an account of the author's assignment to see if elephants could be used to extract teak from the Andaman Islands, a prison colony in Bengal Bay off Burma and of how he helped his convict assistants regain their self-respect.

"African Explorer" by Seymour Pond presents a portrait of a man whose interest in nature carried him into the wilds of Africa and into the field of taxidermy—Carl Akeley.

"Even as You Love" by Elizabeth Trevino is a story of Ann whose marriage is failing and who turns to her sister, Snow's, Mexican household for comfort and wisdom but discovers problems there also and finds she must help as well as be helped.

"Bridehead: the Drama of Israel" by Waldo Frank is a portrait of Israel's relation with history and with man.

"If You Live with Little Children" by Carolyn Kauffman and Patricia Farrell is a guide for parents suggesting outdoor and indoor play and various ideas for having fun with pre-school children.

A Rex Stout mystery novel concludes the list: "If Death Ever Slept."

Reporter Slated For Knife & Fork Meeting Saturday

Harrison Wood, a reporter and newscaster who has been beating a path to the doors of influential politicians in the nation's capitol, as well as to important spots around the world, will be the guest of honor of members of the Malheur county Knife & Fork club Saturday evening at the East Side cafe in Ontario.

Despite a quarter of a century of chasing down the news as it broke, Wood will not talk altogether on current affairs or what the big brass in Washington is doing politically or diplomatically. Instead, he will regale club members with humorous stories he has picked up along the corridors of legislative halls and unusual incidents happening behind the

Nyssans Appear On C of I Dean's List

Daniel L. Klinkenberg and Keitha Hahn, both of Nyssa, were among the 97 College of Idaho students attaining the dean's list for the semester at the Caldwell school.

A grade point of 3.25 is necessary for listing on this honor roll, college officials reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Rinehart are program chairmen and refreshments will be served by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Adams and their committeemen.

Harrison Wood

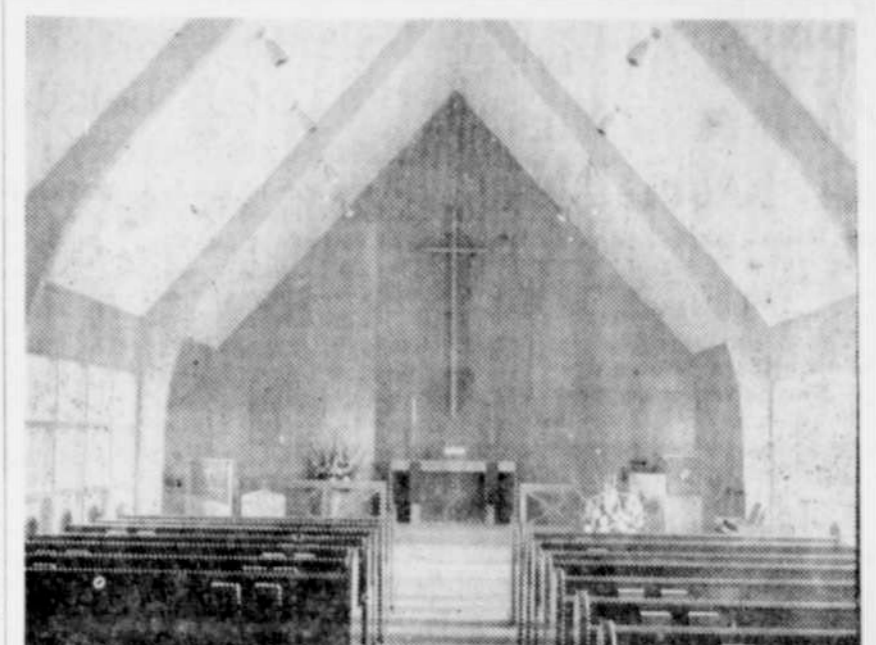

scenes which never broke into the news columns at all.

According to this veteran newsmen and radio commentator, there are more strange things happening in the nation's capitol than along New York's Broadway. Citizens and taxpayers who have the idea everything going on in Washington is dead serious would be greatly surprised if they knew just half the truth . . . and that is what Wood plans to tell club members.

Broshia Case Receives Medal At Eugene Meet

Miss Broshia Case, division 8 winner of the American Legion oratorical contest, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Dolly Case, left Friday for Eugene where she joined eight contestants who were vieing for state honors Saturday. The finals were held at the American Legion hall.

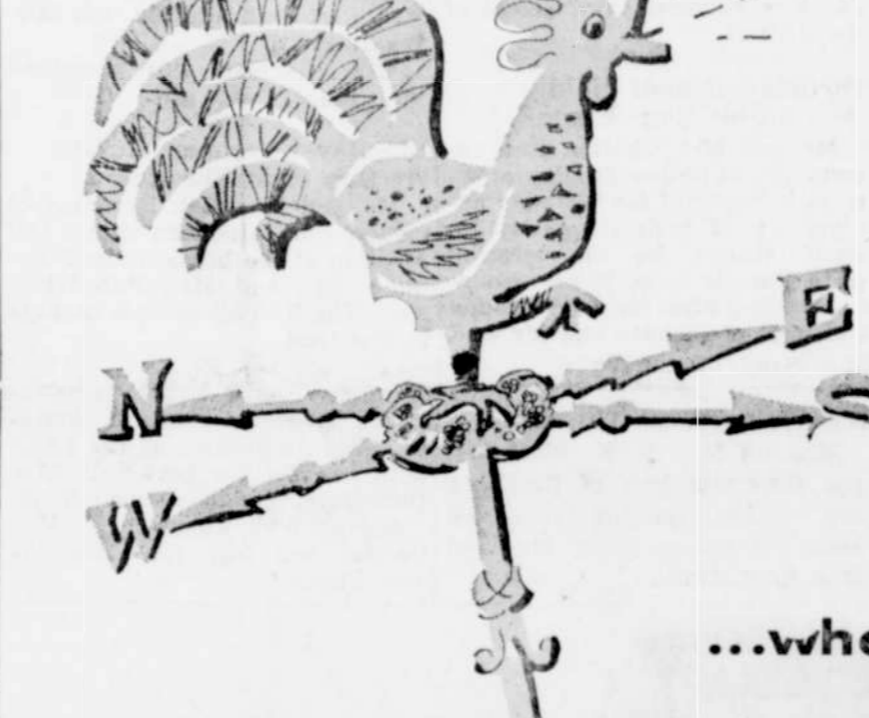

Miss Case, the only sophomore contestant, was awarded a bronze medal for her participation. Following the finals all contestants were entertained with a banquet at the Osborn hotel.

Seal Sale Head Asks County Help

More than 500,000 Oregon residents are due to receive Easter Seals in the mail during the next few days and Mrs. W. H. Farson of Ontario, Malheur county chairman, expressed hope that people of Malheur county will "respond generously."

The Easter Seal sale, prime source of revenue for the Oregon Society of Crippled Children and Adults, will continue through Easter Sunday, April 6.

"Easter Seals have become a symbol of hope for the crippled children of Oregon," Mrs. Farson stated, "because through Easter Seals they have received so many benefits never available to them before, such as the Easter Seal hospital school in Eugene and Camp Easter Seal."

Awards Given Five For Memberships

Gleason gunner pins were presented to five local Legionnaires last Thursday who had enrolled 12 or more members in American Legion post No. 79 for the year.

The pins were presented at a joint social meeting of the local Legion post and the auxiliary by district No. 15 Commander Fred E. Bennett.

Those receiving the Gleason gunner pins included Commander Bennett, post No. 79 Commander Harold Brendle, Adjutant Hamilton Chadderdon, Don Graham and Kay Brendle.
