

Several Activities Planned for Games

(From the Nyssa High Bulletin)
Do you stay in the gym and watch the halftime activities at ball games? For those who do here is a roundup of the halftime activities for the 1960 basketball season.

Wrestling was on the agenda for Jan. 15, with NHS boys competing with one another. It isn't certain yet but Rolf Sutschkow will probably be coming your way Jan. 23 with a show of magic.

Twirlers from NHS will perform their feats with batons on both Jan. 30 and Feb. 20. Tumbler will take over halftime activities soon. Performers from the junior high school will be seen Feb. 9, and the elementary students will appear Feb. 19.

Polished Floors Safe These Days

Many falls in the home these wet winter days may be traced to the floor underfoot, say extension home management specialists at Oregon State college.

The once popular notion that a highly polished floor is dangerous is no longer true. The brighter the shine, the safer the floor, specialists advise. A high gloss shows that the wax has been thoroughly buffed to give a hard, safe walking surface.

Polishing waxes used on wood, linoleum and vinyl floors should be thoroughly buffed, preferably with an electric polisher, to give a hard dry finish. If floors aren't buffed enough, they get tacky and smeary. These floors are unsafe, say OSC home economists, because wet heels are likely to skid easily on them.

New 4-H Rifleman Project Announced

Free instruction in safe, sensible use of guns is offered Oregon youths in a new 4-H club project recently developed by the Oregon State college extension service.

The Rifleman 4-H club project is aimed at helping youngsters develop ability and responsibility in handling guns safely, says Andrew Landforce, OSC wildlife specialist, who wrote the project outlines. The 4-H project supplements the Oregon hunter safety program sponsored by the state game commission.

4-H leaders also hope to discourage "gun totin'" and the popularized TV "fast draw" which cause many needless accidents and deaths each year in Oregon.

Youngsters 12 years of age and older may choose from three project divisions—the pro-marksman, the marksman and the hunter—depending on age and ability. All the 4-H gun lessons emphasize good sportsmanship, respect for private, public and personal property and wildlife conservation. More information about the project is available at all county extension offices.
