

Great Decisions To Begin Here During February

Oregon's annual review of main issues in American foreign policy will start in February when residents of 27 counties will meet in "Great Decisions" discussion groups. Mrs. Edna Mae Wimsatt of Ontario is Malheur county chairman.

Early reports indicate that more study groups are being formed this year than in 1959 when some 6,000 Oregonians discussed current topics in more than 400 groups.

The program also is carried by high school social studies classes and each issue is reviewed by Oregon newspapers, television and radio stations.

Mrs. Mabel Mack, assistant director of Oregon State college extension service and co-chairman of the state "Great Decisions" program, stressed the importance of Americans understanding the full range of international problems they face.

She pointed out that "Great Decisions" groups give participants an opportunity to study facts and arrive at an informed opinion. Group members study fact sheet material prepared by the Foreign Policy Association (FPA) and discuss one key issue each week for an eight-week period. Sets of fact sheets and extra ballots may be secured in each county from the "Great Decisions" chairman.

At the end of each discussion, participants will record their opinions on individual ballots. Summary of ballots cast in Oregon will be sent to FPA as well as ballots from the 43 other states participating in the "Great Decisions" program. State and national summaries will be forwarded to the U. S. State department.

In Oregon the program is co-sponsored by Oregon State college extension service and the general extension division of the state system of higher education in cooperation with the FPA, the state department of education, state library and some 25 statewide organizations.

New Editions on Rockets and Missiles Among Listings at Malheur Library

Books about rockets and missiles head the group going into circulation Saturday, Jan. 30, at Malheur county library.

"Illustrated Guide to U.S. Missiles and Rockets" by Stanley Ulanoff. An illustrated album that contains all the vital, up-to-date information on the 65 basic missiles and rockets in use or under test today by the American Army, Navy, Air Force and space scientists.

"Exploration of Space" by Arthur C. Clarke. A new edition of a book first published in 1951 which has been prepared for the benefit of those who are interested in the why and how of astronautics yet do not wish to go into too many scientific details.

"Rocket Handbook for Amateurs" by Charles M. Parkin, Jr. An illustrated guide to the safe construction, testing and launching of model rockets.

"Candidates 1960" edited by Eric Sevareid. Guide to the personalities, records, ambitions and strategies of the leading contenders in the race for the next presidential nominations.

"Your Money and Your Church" by Richard Byfield. A realistic Biblical standard of giving and details of a tested plan for church financing.

"A Genuinely Human Existence" by Stephen Neill. The measure of modern man, his moves and morals, in the light of insights from the study of myth, history, psychology and Christian thought.

"Living Beyond Your Heart Attack" by Eugene B. Mozes. An eminent specialist now gives you the new, encouraging fact about what heart attack is, how to survive it, and how to recover from it fearlessly and quickly.

"Hearing: A Handbook for Laymen" by Norton Canfield. A national consultant on hearing discusses in clear detail the problems — medical, psychological, economic and social — of the hearing-handicapped.

"All Our Tomorrows" by Josephine Lawrence. Readers of Josephine Lawrence's other novels on familiar problems will welcome this fictional exploration of the difficulties of old age and the interaction of the generations with each other.

"The Mark of the Sun" by Elizabeth Webb. The odyssey of Toddy Vine — half-English, half-Australian aborigine — trapped by his mixed blood in an uneasy no man's land between two worlds.

"The Cross on the Drum" by Hugh B. Cave. A novel which tells the story of a young missionary in the Caribbean who matches his strength against the power of voodoo.

"Doctor on Trial" by Elizabeth Seifert. A dramatic story which depicts many of the pleasures and pitfalls in the long and arduous training of a doctor.

Oregon Principals Plan Interviews With Grads at OSC

Oregon high school principals have been invited to the Oregon State college campus Feb. 13 for conferences with their recent graduates on college preparation, progress and problems.

OSC launched the unique interview series eight years ago to help pinpoint strong and weak points in the college's orientation program for new students and to help the high schools evaluate their college preparatory programs.

Started on an eight-school experimental basis, the program has received wide comment and the number of schools participating has increased each year. Some 50 or 60 high schools are expected to take part this year.

Dallas Norton, college personnel coordinator, is in charge. College students from the various high schools help arrange the student interviews for their principals.

Under the program, principals have individual, voluntary interviews with their former students. Talks center around the student's appraisal of high school preparation for college and progress and problems in studies at OSC.

After the interviews, the high school representatives meet with college leaders to review comments and recommendations made by the students. Findings in past years have brought changes and improvements in some aspects of both college preparatory programs in the high schools and in counseling programs designed to get "students off on the right foot" in college, Norton said.

4-H'ers to Hear College Specialist

Malheur county 4-H leaders and junior leaders will meet this week with Mrs. Roberta Frasier, Oregon State Extension family life specialist, to discuss understanding the behavior of boys and girls.

According to Janet Lohrenz, county extension agent, the meeting for adult 4-H leaders will be Friday, Jan. 29, at the Ontario First Baptist church from 1:30 to 4 p.m. The discussion with adult leaders will concern the behavior of children of 4-H club age, nine to 21.

County 4-H junior leaders will meet with Mrs. Frasier Saturday from 1:30 to 4 p.m. at the Cairo school. Understanding what makes younger children behave as they do will be the main topic at the junior leader workshop. Much of this meeting will be devoted to questions by junior leaders concerning how to work with certain behavior problems or situations in their clubs.
