U.S. Marine Corps Offers Diversification For New Volunteers

"Building men is a job for men and the Marine corps provides seasoned and experienced instructors," said Sgt. Lew A. Ewing, Marine recruiter for Eastern Oregon and Western Idaho.

The Marine corps has been designated by congress as America's Force-in-Readiness and to fulfill this mission men and women are wanted for training in over 600 technical skills. This force in readiness is built on a foundation of a compact, mobile and flexible air, ground and sea team that wants men and women of spirit and integrity who can qualify to become members of this proud, respected organization.

Men and women may enlist for immediate training or they can choose the exclusive and popular Marine corps 120-day delay program, whereas they can enlist immediately and choose any date within four months to leave for training.

Sgt. Ewing will be at the post office in Nyssa Monday, July 11, from 2 to 5:30 p.m. to interview men and women who are interested in becoming Marines.
