Twenty-nine members of Bethel 33 of Job's Daughters left Wednesday by chartered bus to attend grand session at Salem.

The session began today with registration and this evening the local Bethel will present the flag ceremony. This has been instructed by Mrs. L. A. Maulding, grand marshal. Due to illness, Mrs. Maulding was unable to attend; therefore, the ceremony will be directed by another past grand guardian.

Among activities the girls will take part in are a brunch and style show at Meier and Franks, swimming parties, smorgasbords and meetings. The grand council meets tomorrow.

Council members accompanying the girls are Dr. and Mrs. John Olsen, Mrs. Paul House, Mrs. C. A. Wernick, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Morrison Jr., Mrs. Walt Roth and Mrs. William Woodman.

Installation of all grand officers will be held Saturday night.

According to Mrs. John Olsen, the girls have earned their own money to cover expenses of the trip. Driving the bus will be the same driver who has taken them to grand session for the past four years.

They plan to return home Sunday.

Northwest Group Works to Check 'Diploma Mills'

A program to eliminate "diploma mills" that sell college degrees has been launched by the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher schools, headed this year by Dr. F. A. Gilfillan, Oregon State college dean of sciences.

It is estimated that some 1,000 diploma mills are now operating in this country, Gilfillan said, with most of the diploma sales to persons in foreign countries. One or two such diploma mills are known—or suspected—to exist in the seven states included in the Northwest association—Alaska, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Utah and Nevada.

The Northwest organization is the regional accrediting agency that works with the National Commission on Accrediting. The other five regions of the country are also cooperating in the drive.

As president of the Northwest association, Gilfillan has written to the governors of the seven states asking them to cooperate with their state educational leaders in stamping out—and guarding against—diploma mill operations. Suggested state legislation that would check such operations has been drafted by the National Council of State Governments.

Governors of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Nevada, Montana and Alaska have already indicated they are checking the matter of diploma mills in their respective states.

Annual "take" of the degree-sales racket is said to be around $75,000,000. The usual fee rate, Gilfillan said, is $50 for a bachelor's degree, $100 for a master's degree and $150 for a doctor's degree. In most cases, there are no requirements—other than money—attached.

U. S. diploma mill sales abroad have reached such proportions that they have brought a questioning attitude in some foreign countries over all American college granted degrees, Gilfillan declared.
