Hand in hand with farm achievement is FARM ELECTRIFICATION

Malheur county has a remarkable record of farm achievement and agricultural growth. A parallel growth — and they are directly interrelated — has come about in the extent of farm electrification and the surprising increase in the use of electricity on the farm.

Only 25 years ago, fewer than 500 Malheur county farms used electricity. With the advent of new irrigation projects, the total number of farms increased. Today nearly 3300 Malheur county farms are electrified, a virtual 100% coverage.

Of equal significance, the average annual use of electricity on these farms has increased from 1371 kilowatt hours in 1935 to 9147 kilowatt hours today. Farm use of electricity, on the average, has almost doubled in the past 10 years.

Translate this increase in the use of electricity into the dozens of labor-saving, comfort-giving and profit-making services which now use electricity on every farm, and you can begin to appreciate how substantial is this farm achievement. Malheur county farms are enjoying a high standard of electrical living, one of the highest in the nation. Many new farm homes are total electric — including wonderfully convenient, flameless electric heat.

Idaho Power Company is proud to be a part of Malheur county's farm achievement.
