OREGON is a way of living

...let First National help you enjoy it!

Fall is a time of harvest, and traditionally a time of storing up for the months ahead. Although we seldom store food in cellars and smokehouses in this age of specialization, the same principle applies: You can be ready to face future months or years if you have stored some of today's harvest. For most of us, that harvest is a weekly or monthly income. The way to store it, easily and without worry, is in a First National Bank savings account, built up through regular, repeated deposits. Be ready to handle your future. Open a savings account now at your nearby branch of First National Bank of Oregon.
