

Hunters Need Not Report Deer Kill

The Oregon Game commission reminds deer hunters that for the first time in many years, they are not required to report their kill by the usual report card system. In fact no report card was issued this year with the regular deer tag.

Many hunters have forgotten or failed to realize they did not receive a report card when they purchased their deer tag, and believing the card lost, are reporting their kill or lack of success to the game commission by letter, post card or by sending in their deer tag. All hunters are advised that the big game tag must be retained with the meat until the meat is consumed.

The original intent of the report card system was to determine the harvest of big game animals, but to be successful all cards had to be returned. However, from year to year only about 50 percent of the hunters cooperated by filling out and returning the cards. The game commission also felt that these returns were heavily weighted in favor of successful hunters. Because of these two factors, the cards were never used to determine total take but were valuable in pro-rating the kill by county or area. Total kill of big game animals was calculated by a random survey of hunters.

Last year the game commission stepped up its random survey method and discontinued com-

Variety of Interesting New Volumes Added to Shelves at County Library

A number of interesting new books will go into circulation Saturday, Nov. 5, at Malheur county library. They include:

"The Plains Rifle" by Charles E. Hanson. An account of the great gunsmiths, their products and the rugged individuals who cherished and depended upon them.

"The Liberal Hour" by John Kenneth Galbraith. The first section deals with the strategy of peaceful competition and other aspects of U. S. economics; the second, with myths and misconceptions about U. S. history and society; and the third, with essays on such topics as farming abandoned New England farms and the pleasures of buying and going bankrupt from a country inn.

"The Good Years" by Walter Lord. A varied narrative of the years from 1900 to the first World War.

"The Innocents at Home" by David Balfour. An English writer records with wit and perception his impressions of the American people, our cities and countryside, homes, food, newspapers, entertainments and habits of life.

"Art from Scrap" by Carl Reed. A number of creative projects which can be developed with limited tools, materials, space and budget. Especially designed for children's workers.

"The Sealer" by James Wood. A novel of espionage and the sea.

"A Silence of Desire" by Kamala Taylor. The story of a family

plately the issuance of hunter report cards. Under the new system, 20,000 hunter questionnaires are sent to randomly selected hunters following the hunting seasons. Hunters are requested to report their hunting success or failure on all game species. Those hunters who fail to report within the time limit set are visited by game commission personnel and the information desired is obtained. From such a survey, the total kill results are quite accurate, plus or minus a few percent either way.

All hunters receiving questionnaires are required by law to fill them out as accurately as possible and return them to the game commission. Failure to do so could result in having hunting privileges refused. The 20,000-questionnaire survey will again be conducted this year following the hunting seasons.

wifeless father becomes more than a bystander in his teenaged daughter's latest romance.

"The Saga of Slade" by Don Prophet. A western novel by an Idaho author that combines high adventure and romance with a penetrating study of a remarkable man.

"The Bridge of the Brocade Sash" by Sachevenell Sitwell. Travels and observations in Japan.

"Junket to Japan" by Clarissa Lorenz. An account of the adventures of Peter, an American Field Service exchange student in Japan.

"Russia" by Charles W. Thayer. The first in a series of books edited by Life magazine, designed to give the American reader a clear and comprehensive picture of what life is like in a number of the world's great countries.

"1600 Pennsylvania Avenue" by Walter Johnson. A penetrating historical study of the American presidency since 1929.

"White House Fever" by Robert Bendiner. A guide to principles and practices, respectable and otherwise, behind the election of American presidents.

"Arthritis and You" by James W. Brooke. Sound information and advice on one of man's commonest complaints.

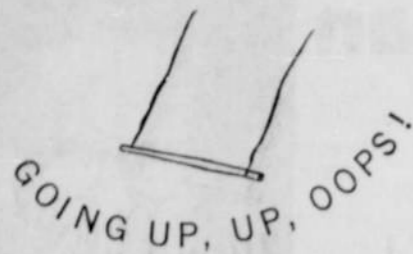

"Lore and Language of Schoolchildren" by Iona Opie. A study of the rhymes, riddles, jeers, nicknames and other types of lore that is current among school children today and is transmitted orally, some of it over a period of hundreds of years.

"Kingdom Come" by Virginia Sorenson. Set in Denmark in the 1850's this novel deals with the impact of the first Mormon missionaries from America upon the state church and upon the lives of the people.

Re-Elect Ameil Claude

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

I am a candidate for re-election as County Commissioner of Malheur county on the basis of my record in that position during the past four years.

Four years ago when I sought this office, I stated repeatedly that I would work for the following:

1. Better Roads with Less Waste and Expense
2. Less Friction and More Efficiency
3. Improved Education for Children
4. Fair and Impartial Treatment to All, and
5. Common Sense

During the time that I have been in office, I have endeavored to accomplish these items to the best of my ability, and to a large extent I believe that I have succeeded. However, the past four years have taught me that there are many inequities on the County Court that require correction. It is for the purpose of correcting those elements of unfairness that I ask for your support in the forthcoming election. These are the items upon which I will exert my efforts if re-elected:

1. While the road program in Malheur county has advanced in volume, it is still my sincere belief that fair treatment has not been accorded to all portions of the county. If you will examine the areas where most of the work has been performed, you will readily find that one area has received far more than its fair share of construction and maintenance at the expense of other sections of the county. — You have heard my repeated objection to this inequitable treatment and favoritism. I WILL CONTINUE IN MY EFFORTS TO ELIMINATE THIS PARTIALITY.
2. My experience as a County Commissioner has shown me that it is necessary that an accurate record be maintained of each and every County Court conference, meeting and hearing. At the present time, once a meeting is concluded there is no way of knowing with certainty just what occurred at the meeting. There are denials and affirmances but no certainty. I have heretofore requested that either a reporter or a tape recorder be used to record those meetings. The people would then know exactly who is responsible for everything that happens. I WILL INSIST THAT EVERY MEETING BE RECORDED IN ORDER THAT NO ONE CAN HIDE BEHIND DENIALS AND QUALIFIED STATEMENTS.
3. The past four years have also demonstrated that there has NOT been the fair treatment and impartiality to ALL PEOPLE that should exist on a County Court. It makes no difference to me from what part of the county a person comes — he has the same right to courteous and fair treatment. I WILL CONTINUE TO TREAT ALL PEOPLE FAIRLY IN CONNECTION WITH ALL OF THEIR PROBLEMS — LARGE OR SMALL.
4. The taxes of our property-owners are already burdensome. I will not permit expenditure of tax monies unless it is shown that such monies are spent wisely and in the right place. If the people want to spend larger sums of money, they have the right to do so, but their voice should be expressed at an election instead of the County Court quietly imposing greater tax burdens on our people. I WILL WORK DILIGENTLY TOWARD THIS END.
5. BUDGET BOARD. My opponent was a man on the Budget Board and passed the recent much-discussed budget. I made strong objections to many of the items but was overruled by the majority. The Budget Board budgeted $23,000 for Courthouse furnishings. I attempted to have this cut down to a more reasonable figure but was outvoted. The conference room was furnished directly out of this $23,000 item which the Budget Board approved. The same Board approved $17,000 as an emergency fund and I recommended $5,000 as being adequate. It has been in the past. They approved $8,500 for a museum but I was able to stop this expenditure until the people had a chance to vote on it. But this $8,500 is still in the budget over my objections. The Budget Board approved $57,000 for a Courthouse sinking fund. This is in addition to the budget item to pay for the bonds coming due. It simply means we're collecting $57,000 and investing it at a low rate of interest. It requires the farmers to pay this much more money on their tax bill, which is wholly unnecessary. These four items total $105,500, while $20,000 would have been more than adequate to cover the needs for all of them.
6. If re-elected, I will continue to apply ordinary common sense and business judgment to county problems. You will agree that I have spoken out clearly and strongly on any matter to which I had objection. I was often overruled, but everybody knew exactly where I stood. I will continue to do so if re-elected.

I sincerely believe that my record during the past four years justifies my re-election.
