NAZARENE Church News

Rehearsal for the Christmas cantata, "The Great Deliverer," was held at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 27, with 22 teenagers participating. The next practice will be Dec. 4 at 3 p.m. Golden Hour missionary members will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Alexander for their annual Christmas party. Pollyannas will be revealed and there will be a gift exchange. Husbands are invited.

VISIT FROM WASHINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. Lesley Ditty and son Ronald of Tacoma, Wash., are spending this week at the home of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John Reeves. The Dittys are former residents of Sunset Valley community.

Miss Linda Moncur of Boise spent Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Moncur.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Jackson were in Spokane, Wash., on business Friday and Saturday.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESS GROUP ATTENDS BURLEY MEETING

Ministers associated with the local group of Jehovah's Witnesses will attend a special winter training convention to be held in Burley, Idaho, Dec. 23-25, according to announcement by Ronald Franklin, presiding minister of the local group.

Nineteen other congregations from throughout Southern Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Nevada will also be present for the assembly, Franklin said.

Ray Harris of Berryville, Ark., called at the Journal office Saturday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Ted Brammer, former residents of that city. He and Mrs. Harris had been visiting his father, Albert G. Harris on Oregon Slope and other relatives near Twin Falls, Idaho.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rigney returned Sunday from Yakima, Wash., where they had spent the Thanksgiving holidays with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ibrahim Ayyoub and daughter, Laila.

From This Corner . . .

By T. M. B.

No one has registered any complaints over this column being omitted but we use a certain amount of filler in each paper, and we're just vain enough to think it equals some of the other we have been wanting to boast of our prediction about the outcome of the presidential election . . . but we still don't dare since certain of the Republicans think it isn't decided yet.

Mr. Nixon is taking no part in the requests for recounts . . . says he wants no part of it and that he figured the odds on changing the results were about 1 to 10,000 but with a surplus of $250,000 in the party treasury it won't hurt to spend part of it that way.

Have you noticed how much truth has come to light once the election was over? We learn that unemployment has shown a marked increase over the previous year and the president suddenly discovers that our gold reserves are being drained off, and we get alarmed enough about the Cuban and Latin American situation that a carrier and some destroyers are placed off the coast of Latin countries to protect them from a Cuban invasion.

It would not have made any difference if the Democrats had been in power . . . they would have done the same thing until the elections were over. The point is that the ordinary reader is unable to learn the truth from the highest office holders when an election is approaching.

But with about 75 percent of the papers in the U.S. leaning toward the Republicans it sounds rather "cry-baby" for them and some columnists to talk of biased reporting on the presidential candidates.

Thanksgiving passed very quietly in Nyssa. We saw fewer cars on the streets than ever before in the 19 months we have been here. Only the places offering personal services were open as far as we know.

Santa Claus is coming to town Saturday afternoon. He has arranged for a free show for the smaller youngsters and candy for all. And the Nyssa merchants are so happy they have arranged to have him escorted by the junior high band parading down Main street and will even have his talks with the kiddies broadcast over the radio.

But that's not all . . . the merchants learned last year that he was kinda gabby and that made him slow in getting around to some of the kids, so this year they are letting him bring Mrs. Santa with him to speed up the giving. Betcha a lot of the grown-ups didn't know if he was married or not!

Some people we know are rather lost since the pheasant season ended. One fellow said he didn't mind for himself so much but he had a lot of trouble explaining to his dog that he wasn't going hunting just because he put on his old overalls around home.

Duck season lasts until Jan. 8 but we've learned there's a big difference in shooting them and pheasants. They not only fly away from you but rise much faster than pheasants . . . and keep trying for more altitude.

The street decorations will be complete before this issue of the paper reaches you and we hate to start telling who all had a hand in it lest we overlook someone. But we are given to understand by Rex Voeller that he was the "big boss" on the project. Others we know that helped were part of the city crew, part of the Idaho Power crew, Gene Servoss and Eddie Taylor. They look real nice and the rest of us should say, "Thanks for a job well done."

We were surprised this past week when the manager of a local business told us his out-

Merchants' Luncheon Scheduled Saturday At Methodist Bazaar

Final preparations for the Methodist WSCS bazaar will be made Thursday when society members meet at 2 p.m. in the church parlor.

Some of the bazaar articles are now on display in the Idaho Power company window. Items range from baby clothing to lace tablecloth, holiday corsages to centerpiece arrangement, cook books of favorite recipes to cooked foods.

A merchants' luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., to which the public is invited.

Of special interest will be jewelry from the Holy Land. Hand carved by master craftsmen, the mother-of-pearl jewelry is imported by a Christian family. Proceeds from sale of these items will be used for Jewish refugee aid. Orders for this jewelry will be taken at the bazaar.

Hours for the bazaar will be from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 3.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Bartholomew, Jr., and family of San Francisco left Sunday for their home after spending the Thanksgiving holidays with his mother, Mrs. C. T. Bartholomew.

town boss didn't want any more advertising until after the first of the year. Some people think they cannot afford to advertise while others think they cannot afford NOT to advertise. Some think the large corporations can spend a lot of money to advertise because they are big. We believe they got big by advertising successfully in the first place.

How long could a farmer maintain his land if he failed to fertilize just because he had a bad crop or the price wasn't good? Few farmers ever went broke building up their land and fewer merchants went broke because they advertised.
