Mrs. Ada E. Bailey, Mother of Nyssa, Dies in Auto Mishap

Funeral services for Ada Elizabeth Bailey of Huntington, Ore., were held Dec. 16, 1960, in Weiser, Idaho.

Mrs. Bailey was pronounced dead on arrival at Weiser Memorial hospital following a two-car collision about nine miles north of the Weiser junction on highway 30 west toward Huntington in an accident in which five others were injured Saturday, Dec. 10.

Mrs. Bailey, born May 17, 1895, was riding in a car driven by her husband, Orrin W. Bailey. Their car, a 1961 station wagon, was traveling north on highway 30, when it struck a slick spot in the roadway as it was rounding a right-hand curve, according to Oregon State police. Control of the car was lost and it slid into and nearly collided head-on with a car driven by Edward L. Alexander of Cambridge.

Alexander's car was nearly stopped at the time of impact. Speed of Bailey's car was undetermined, officers reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey and their other two passengers, Ethel Maude Green, 65, and grandson, Rodney Dale Green, as well as Alexander and his wife, Edna, were taken to the Weiser hospital.

Mrs. Alexander suffered a broken left leg and other injuries. Her husband suffered several broken ribs.

After examination of Bailey, Mrs. Green and her grandson by Dr. M. S. McGrath of Weiser, who described their condition as serious, they were transferred to St. Luke's hospital in Boise. Bailey and Mrs. Green are still in the Boise hospital and reported to be in satisfactory condition. Rodney Green was released before Christmas.

In addition to Mr. Bailey, survivors include three children by a previous marriage, Virgil Smith, Mountain Home; Miles Smith, Colton, Ore., and Mrs. Clifford B. Bunch of Nyssa. Two other daughters surviving are Mrs. Harold Welch and Mrs. Christine Waculla, both of Sacramento, Calif.

Among other survivors are three brothers, William and Miles Marcum, both of La Grande and Sam Marcum of St. Joseph, Mo.; one sister, Mrs. Earl Baker of Richland, Wash.; six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.
