EVOLUTION OF A TERRITORY ... AND A RAILROAD

Once it was a barren land, a vast roaming-area for Indians and wild life. Transportation was by horse or on foot . . . tortuously, laboriously slow.

Then came the adventurous ones, the pioneers . . . by prairie schooner, on horseback, on foot. Slowly, to be sure, but they came! And with them came the plow, marking the beginning of the Age of Agriculture.

Finally, came the railroad. Gleaming rails over which trains rolled. They brought raw materials and finished products . . . and people! More, always more. It is inevitable . . . the railroad had come — the UNION PACIFIC.

Today, this same railroad serves this rich segment of the nation . . . the Union Pacific States of America. We're proud to be a part of these 11 states and happy that we can serve them.
