Bulldogs Down Vale For Sub-District Title

Nyssa Bulldogs put on traveling gear and visited the Vale Vikings Tuesday afternoon for a sub-district baseball playoff game. Arch rivals for many, many years, the two teams clashed for a temper-ridden eight innings with Bulldog pitcher Dub Jones staying on top of the hill all through the earthquake.

A tie score of 3-3 forced an extra inning and the game was wide open. Frank Walker knocked the dirt from his cleats and banged out a single. Moved to third with the help of Jack Dail, he scored when Terry Thompson dribbled a ground ball to a sleeping Vale third baseman.

Vale grabbed their bats for a try to even things up but didn't have the punch. Much to the disappointment of the large Vale crowd, the scorekeeper hung up a 4-3 victory for Nyssa.

The Bulldogs will meet Mac-Hi Saturday afternoon at 2:30 for another district game. Coach Bob Morford has again tapped Dub Jones for hill duty.

It's hard to know exactly when one generation ends and the next one begins. But it's somewhere around nine o'clock at night.

Funeral Services Scheduled Today For Frank Whipple

Funeral services for Frank Whipple will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon, May 11, 1961, at Lienkaemper chapel with the Rev. Paul Ludlow of Nyssa Methodist church officiating.

Mr. Whipple was born July 3, 1897, a son of William and Paulina Schreyer Whipple in Callaway, Neb. He succumbed in Malheur Memorial hospital Sunday, May 7, following a brief illness.

He was married Aug. 8, 1923, to Edith Morrison in Newton, Kan. The family lived in Nebraska until 1936 when they came to the Nyssa area. Since that time they lived continuously on their farm southwest of Nyssa.

The family worked for 25 years converting the rough sagebrush land into a fertile farm. In addition to providing for his family, Mr. Whipple's main interests were

Final Water Report Shows Low Supply

year or in 1959. Owyhee reservoir is expected to have less usable water this year than even the "short" 1955 irrigation season.

Carryover storage this fall will likely be the shortest in many years. Irrigators should consider methods which will result in maximum efficiency and conserve as much water as possible for next year.

Statewide, Oregon's 1961 water supply outlook changed slightly during April. The northern third of the state improved a little and remains "fair" to "near average." Forecasts dropped even lower in the southern two-thirds of the state and the outlook there is now "fair" to "poor."

Water supply forecasts for the April - September period now range from 20 percent of average for inflow to Clear lake, which serves Lost river water users, to 91 percent for Catherine creek near Union. Reservoir "carryover" storage will be at or near an all-time low this fall in many areas of the state.

This is the last report on snow surveys and water supply conditions for this season.

How Do 1 Out of 5 Women Make Their Housework More Pleasant

If you've been looking for an economical way to save steps and give yourself a little more free time, here's some news that could prove helpful.

At the end of last year, more than one out of every five western families had extension phones. The ratio was about one out of ten in 1955. In other words, in just five years, the number of homes with two-telephone convenience has more than doubled.

Three words tell you why: Usefulness, Beauty, Economy. Above all, an extension phone is useful. Next time you're working in a back bedroom or the basement when the phone rings, see if you don't agree.

And, happily, you don't need to be using a second phone to enjoy the way it looks in a room. With a choice of nine colors and three styles, your telephone becomes an object of noticeable interest and beauty.

Finally, consider economy. You can enjoy the beauty and usefulness of another phone—installed wherever you want it—for a few pennies a day. At that price, why deprive yourself?

Tomorrow, call a friend who's got an extension phone. Ask if she's enjoying it, where she's using it and which color and style she selected. Then, when you're ready to order, just call our business office or ask a telephone serviceman.
