Pastor Gives Advice To Young Couples Planning to Be Wed

(Editor's Note—The following is advice to young couples planning to be married and is taken from an article appearing in a recent Nyssa Methodist church bulletin issued by the Rev. Paul Ludlow. Since there are many weddings scheduled in the near future, we believe the article is timely and pass it on to all Journal readers. It should be of interest to all united couples, regardless of age or how many years married.)

Marriage is for mature people. Mature people in love are not self-centered, jealous, boastful, arrogant or rude. Mature people in love can take wealth or poverty, health or sickness without a loss of balance. Maturity is not always measured in years.

Marriage is exclusive. "For-saking all others, wilt thou keep thee only unto her?" Let nothing come into those united lives that will separate, mar or belittle the marriage relationship. This means "harmless" flirtations and over-indulgence in job or hobby. A man can betray his wife by spending every weekend fishing; his wife can spoil the fellowship by too many hours watching TV.

Marriage is for life. This is not a sentence, but a glorious adventure in loving and cherishing. Twenty-five years from now that love should be far richer than can be imagined on the wedding day.

"It is therefore not to be entered into unadvisedly..." Don't rush into marriage, but take time during courtship to make sure there are no basic conflicts of religion, relatives, temperament, sex or education that could destroy the marriage. Love dare not be blind.

"No other human ties are more tender; no other vows more sacred."

"Those whom God hath joined together, let no man put asunder."
