How Far Toward Communism?

More than a century ago Karl Marx in his Communist Manifesto, which is the bible of the Communist faith, laid down the program by which a country may be converted to communism. He embodied the basis of it into ten steps—ten legislative measures which once instituted would eventually lead to the creation of a communist state.

Your attention is invited to these ten steps as published in the one hundredth anniversary edition of the Communist Manifesto. Here they are, word for word:

"We have seen that the first step in the revolution by the working class to raise the proletariat (wage earners) to the position of the ruling class is to win the battle of democracy.

"The proletariat will use its political supremacy to wrest, by degrees, all capital from the bourgeoisie (i.e., the property owners), to centralize all instruments of production in the hands of the state . . .

"Of course, in the beginning this cannot be effected by means of despotic inroads on the rights of property and the condition of bourgeois production . . .

"These measures will, of course, be different in different countries. Nevertheless, in the most advanced countries the following will be pretty generally applicable:

"(1) Abolition of property in land and application of all rents of land to public purposes.

"(2) A heavy progressive or graduated income tax.

"(3) Abolition of all rights of inheritance.

"(4) Confiscation of the property of all emigrants and rebels.

"(5) Centralization of credit in the hands of the state by means of a national bank with state capital and an exclusive monopoly.

"(6) Centralization of the means of communication and transportation in the hands of the state.

"(7) Extension of factories and the instruments of production owned by the state; the bringing into cultivation of waste lands, and the improvement of the soil generally in accordance with a common plan.

"(8) Equal liability of all labor. Establishment of industrial armies, especially for agriculture.

"(9) Combination of agriculture with manufacturing industries; gradual abolition of the distinction between town and country, by a more equitable distribution of the population over the country.

"(10) Free education for all children in the public schools. Abolition of the children's factory labor in its present form. Combination of education with industrial production."

There you have the measures that constitute the grand strategy of communism.

They were formulated by Marx and Engels a century ago. They are still the ground plan of the Marxist doctrine adhered to by the Mistaken in the present time. This is their model for defeating America without a shot being fired, just as Boss Khrushchev has predicted over and over again.

It is important to note that Karl Marx did not imply that these measures would be associated with armed revolt. His conception was that the revolution would come through processes in which by degrees the methods of production would be centralized in the hands of the central government.

If you think over those ten proposals of Karl Marx, you will be able to find your own answer to the question as to what extent the Mistaken have been winning victories in the United States in the last thirty years or so. We are in less danger of being "buried" by someone else than we are of burying ourselves.

Boise Services Held Wednesday Morning For Joseph D. Stack

Requiem mass for Joseph Daniel Stack was celebrated Wednesday morning, July 5, 1961, at St. John's cathedral in Boise. Mr. Stack, former Boisean, succumbed Saturday at his home in Sumner, Wash.

He was born March 10, 1900, at Eureka, Utah, and was married to Louise Oeder in 1919 at Twin Falls, Idaho.

Mr. Stack was owner of Stack's Circulation service and for the past 30 years represented Washington Press association at the University of Washington in Seattle.

He will be remembered in Nyssa as having conducted several Gate City Journal subscription campaigns when many area children competed for bicycles and other prizes. His circulation campaigns were conducted when the publication was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Duane Alters and Mrs. Rita K. Whorton.

In addition to his widow of the home, he is survived by his mother, Mary A. Stack of Eureka; two brothers, W. M. Stack of Boise and R. A. Stack of Oakland, Calif.; four sisters, Mrs. O. Hopkins of Cimarron, Colo., Mrs. Clare Larson of Eureka, Mrs. J. A. Martin of Pocatello and Mrs. C. V. Harris of Caldwell.

Interment was made in St. John's section of Morris Hill cemetery in Boise.

FORMER CLASSMATES VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Espey and children, Danny and Linda of Seattle, were weekend guests at the L. E. Tibbets home. The family was enroute to their home from Yellowstone park. The men were members of the same graduating class at OSU and both Mr. and Mrs. Espey were high school classmates of Mrs. Tibbets.

VISIT FROM ARIZONA

Mrs. Fred Norman and sons of Tempe, Ariz., arrived by plane Saturday in Boise where they were met by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Moeller and Brenda McKinney. Mrs. Norman plans to spend the summer with her parents while her husband is attending summer school at Colorado State college in Greeley.

AN APPRECIATION

It's not the things that money buys,
That most people learn to prize.
The home lights of a community,
Mean so much to me.
A rose and silver sunset cloud,
A well-loved face among the crowd.
The flowers that blossom 'round our door
Are treasures dear, in memories store.
Just common things, some folks will say,
But after awhile, there comes a day
When nothing seems so good to you
As dear old friends, whose love is true.
So let us tell them, while we may
How much their presence lights our way.
And often, ere life's journey ends
We thank the dear Lord for home and friends!

Health Officer Warns of Dangers In Unsupervised Water Recreation

Swimming in rivers and public waterways can be more hazardous than it is enjoyable, Dr. R. H. Wilcox, state health officer, Oregon State Board of Health, warned today.

Over 100 Oregonians meet death each year by drowning. Swimming in unsupervised areas, such as rivers, increases the possibility of drowning. The most competent swimmer is at the mercy of the water if he develops cramps when a lifeguard is not nearby to come to his rescue. Likewise, obstruction beneath the water surface can trap the swimmer.

Presents Additional Hazards

Water skiing presents many of the same problems as swimming with a few additional hazards. Only recently a skier was reported drowned in an Oregon river because the pilot did not observe that the skier had fallen. Boating officials recommend that every boat towing a water skier have two occupants—one to pilot the boat and the other to observe or help the water skier.

A new law in Oregon, effective Aug. 9, makes it mandatory that every boat towing a water skier have two people in the boat or a suitable curved mirror which enables the pilot to observe the skier.

Another must in water skiing is the wearing of an approved-type life belt or life vest, adequately fastened, that cannot be torn loose by impact of a fall.

Contracting Disease Possible

Other hazardous consequences of swimming and water skiing in public waterways are the possibilities of contracting a communicable disease, Dr. Wilcox explained. There is no assurance that such waters, regardless of remoteness of location or clearness, are free of disease-producing germs.

National Safe Boating Week Now in Progress

Pleasure boating is the nation's fastest growing family sport. With its growth, however, has come ever-increasing problems—problems of safety, education, identification and law enforcement. In order to take steps to cut the boating accident and death toll, to provide a uniform system of numbering to discourage theft and to facilitate identification, as well as insure the best possible use of recreational waterways for all, federal and state lawmakers, working in cooperation with representatives of boating organizations, developed state boating programs.

The Oregon program, which is administered by the State Marine board, has a number of duties relating to boating. The most important of these is to maintain a safe boating program on the waters of Oregon.

President Kennedy has proclaimed July 2 to 8 as National Safe Boating week. The State Marine board, working hand in hand with the U. S. Coast Guard auxiliary, the U. S. Power squadron and other organizations dedicated to safe boating programs, has chosen "Safe Boating week" to announce a new safety program for young boaters of Oregon.

This program, known as the "Oregon Junior Boatman's Safety Course," is being offered to young people of junior high school age by various boating clubs and other safety-minded organizations throughout the state.

Here is a training program that is needed now for these young people who will be the boaters of tomorrow—when waterways will be even more crowded.

Constant checking of the water is required to assure that any stream is relatively safe for swimming. To do this for all of Oregon's public waterways would require an army of personnel. The Oregon State Board of Health recommends against swimming in public waters, except where adequate safeguards are maintained, the doctor emphasized.

Everyone is urged to exercise care in selection of a place to swim or water ski and to heed any warnings which may be issued by state and local authorities, Dr. Wilcox concluded.

From This Corner . . .

By T. M. B.

Most of us are reluctant to admit mistakes but we'd guess a lot of Kennedy voters are now wondering what it would be like had Nixon been elected. We thought it bad when he adopted part of the Rockefeller social program but we now wonder if that part would have been so bad after all.

We need leadership and statesmanship and less politicians than in many years. The American people are ahead of the leaders in wanting the nation to take a stand and decide what we want and how to get it. Our congress, like the rich Texan, says, "If it's good for you, we'll buy it" and there goes some more billions.

Never again should anyone assume farmers are a dumb, uneducated class of people. Congress has decided, after many years of trying various kinds of farm programs that what the farmers want and vote for should become our agricultural program.

But we city people aren't that smart . . . the president has proposed creating an URBAN AFFAIRS DEPARTMENT with cabinet rank to look after our needs for us!

He also proposes creating another federal agency to determine if the Russians have been carrying on atomic tests. Guess he has lost some confidence in the Central Intelligence agency after the Cuban invasion failure.

Castro did the people of the U.S. one big favor. He turned down the "Tractors for Freedom" deal and kept a lot of people from being a party to international blackmail.

How can we expect our national leaders to handle Khrushchev when they haven't been able to control Hoffa and the Teamsters union?

E. M. Rensberg (Vista, Calif., Press) said he was strongly opposed to socialized medicine but did feel the government should provide free aspirin for the taxpayers.

House bill No. 1143 was signed by the governor March 6, 1961, and is now in effect. It makes the penalty for throwing lighted material on a road or in forest land from $75 to $500 fine or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or both.

"To sin by silence, when they should protest, makes cowards out of men."

Pity the grouch . . . He's the guy who has sized himself up and got sore about it.

With the cost of living so high today, many people can't live on what they're worth. They get the balance in some form of federal handout.

Many teenagers get behind the eight-ball by taking the wrong cue from their parents.

RETURN FROM VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Huffman and Mrs. John Lane returned home June 23 from a week vacation trip. The Huffman couple visited friends and relatives in La Junta and Los Animas, Colo. Mrs. Lane went by bus from La Junta to Oklahoma where she visited friends and relatives.

Thirty-six members of the Huffman family held a reunion at La Junta. Mrs. Lane rejoined the Huffmans there for the return trip which was made via Yellowstone park.
