Local Teenager Named to Board Of Farm Journal

Miss Cheryl Zesiger

Miss Cheryl Zesiger, 16, will serve on Farm Journal magazine's Teen Board for the coming school year, according to Gertrude Dieken, women's editor of the publication. Miss Zesiger is the daughter of Mrs. Eugene W. Cleaver, route 2, Nyssa.

She is one of the 100 outstanding teenage girls from all over the country chosen for their leadership in rural activities, including 4-H club and Future Homemakers work. Their job is to act as a sounding board for Farm Journal's Teen Editor "Polly," reporting on what's new in their schools and communities and what teenagers are doing and thinking about.

Teen Board members frequently are featured in the magazine. Next month (September) in a story, "How a Girl Can Get the Most Out of High School," Farm Journal prints some of the girls' answers that helped them earn positions on Teen Board. Their thoughts are quoted in the magazine, which has a national readership of more than 3 million subscribing families.

In Nyssa high school, Miss Zesiger is a member of the Science club, Girls' league, a student body officer and a member of Future Homemakers of America. In 4-H, she is county grand champion in sewing and modeling and is a junior leader.

STEFFENS' RETURN HOME FROM UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steffens returned Saturday from University of Idaho at Moscow where he was enrolled in physical chemistry and she completed her work on a master's degree in home economics.

They will resume their teaching duties in September when he will again instruct in the Ontario schools and she will be affiliated with the Nyssa school system. The couple reports a hot, dry summer in Moscow.
