Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Foster celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last week. An open house reception was given in their honor on Sunday, April 29, and a seven-telephone conference among family members was held on their May 1 anniversary.

At the Sunday reception, the couple received numerous gifts and cards and were presented a gold money tree by friends and relatives.

A daughter, Grace Wilson in Juneau, Alaska, arranged the seven-telephone conversation on her parents' anniversary. In addition to the honorees and Mrs. Wilson, other voices heard during the family conference included those of Howard and Curtis in California, Mrs. Margaret Torgerson in North Dakota, Tom Foster and Mrs. Crete Sager in Oregon. A daughter, Frances in India, could not be reached by telephone.

The Fosters were married May 1, 1912, in Boulder, Colo., and shortly thereafter came to Nyssa where they have since resided. Foster moved his bees from Colorado in 1911 and engaged in honey production until his son-in-law, Raymond Sager, took over the business.

The couple raised seven children, all of whom were graduated from Nyssa high school and later attended college. There are 18 grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Sager and Bonnie are the only ones residing in Nyssa. The family plans a reunion in June.

K. McPartland Chosen Queen By Job's Daughters

A regular meeting of Job's Daughters, bethel 33, was held last Thursday evening in Masonic hall with Honored Queen Mary Kay Olsen presiding and junior bethel officers assisting.

An invitation to attend officer installation on May 23 was received from bethel 25 of Ontario. Kathleen McPartland was elected honored queen for the next term. Other new officers include Pam Alexander, senior princess; Judy Mackey, junior princess; Pauline Butler, guide, and Carolyn Lowe, marshal.

Next meeting to be held May 17 will be preceded with a potluck dinner honoring the grand guardian and mothers of bethel members.
