Baskets of pink and white gladioli flanked with candelabra provided the setting for the double-ring rites performed by the Rev. Paul Ludlow in the presence of 35 family members. Turquoise ribbon bows graced the basket arrangements, candelabra and pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of turquoise brocade, fashioned with scalloped hem and neckline. She carried a cascading swirl bouquet of pink rosebuds and white carnations.

Mrs. Don Savage attended as matron of honor, wore a pink brocade sheath dress and carried a pink rosebud and white carnation nosegay. Don Savage served as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wernick wore a turquoise afternoon dress and a corsage of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a beige afternoon dress and wore a red rosebud corsage.

A white wedding cake, trimmed with pink and turquoise roses and topped with miniature bride and groom, graced the serving table at a reception given in the church social hall following the ceremony.

Assisting at the reception were the bridegroom's aunts, Mrs. Elwood Carr, Mrs. Lou Pratt and Mrs. Luther Correll, and the bride's sister, Mrs. Albert Clay. Jaye Clay, niece of the bride, had charge of the guest book.

For their wedding trip to John Day, the bride wore a blue and white ensemble with white accessories.
