Dr. James H. Jensen, university president, reminded the recipients that "the United States is unique in the world because a higher education is available to anyone who wants to work for it."

J. W. Jarvis, supervisor of the UP agricultural department, said, "The Union Pacific started this scholarship program in 1921 because it realized it should help build leaders in agriculture, industry and education."

Every year the UP offers a $200 scholarship to one vocational agriculture student and one 4-H member in 198 counties.

Jarvis, who was the first vocational agriculture student to receive a UP scholarship as a youth at Ontario, said 8745 scholarships have been granted by UP, 788 in Oregon.

"The award has been in effect so long that it is not uncommon now for children to follow parents with scholarships," he said. "And except for 40 persons and those who have died, we know what all the winners are doing in life."

CHANDLER'S OUR CHOICE SAYS THE OREGONIAN

Perhaps you read The Oregonian editorial of October 18, which analyzed the two candidates for U.S. Representative here. About Bob Chandler the editors observed, "He is thoroughly acquainted with reclamation, farm, business and other problems of his district, as well as having a sound knowledge of national and world affairs." The incumbent was characterized as "... revealing little independence of thought, and without noticeable distinction in Congress." Small wonder The Oregonian concluded "... we believe Oregon would be better served by the election of Bob Chandler ..."
