Varied Tax Measures Considered at Salem

to hold a special session, called by the governor, to determine how the state should meet its fiscal responsibilities.

"Barrels of Money"

One lobbyist was heard to say that he was going to search for an old gray mare and a wagon and start collecting. He figures if the proposed increases in income tax go into effect, the barrels will come in handy.

It is too early to determine a definite trend the Ways and Means committee will be taking in considering monetary measures. However, if early actions continue, it will be difficult for agencies to pass a budget through this committee without substantial cutbacks.

Representative Stafford Hansell of Umatilla county, who has served on Ways and Means for several sessions and is ranking member in seniority, has said that while in past sessions he had been the "slash" expert and the conservative on the committee, this session he appears to be almost liberal.

I am hopeful that this attitude will continue and not burn out because of pressure from agencies and demands from special interest groups. The Ways and Means committee is one of the few controls we have on state government spending.

Activity Slow in Legislature

General sentiment of legislators these past days has been that of discontent and uneasiness. Activity has been slowed because of the lack of bills, and therefore the members, keyed for production, are picking and arguing on small, inconsequential points.

An apparently necessary bill which comes to the floor will receive much criticism and argument and result in 20 to 25 "no" votes. The reason seems to be that no bills of a really controversial nature have yet been discussed by this hostile crowd. They are geared for battle and are only doing calisthenics.

As bills come to the floor for third reading and final adoption, each legislator is faced with making a decision, "yes" or "no." Many times this is a very difficult decision for the answer is not as clear-cut as the vote must be. The areas of decision are gray rather than black and white. I am sure every legislator must basically consider the question under three separate subjects.

Three Considerations Given

First, how does the bill affect his area? Second, how does the bill affect his state? Third, how does the bill affect his party? After these basic considerations of one's knowledge of area and state comes the wrestle with conscience and philosophy.

It has been my observation that while most legislators represent their area well, under the first three divisions many fall short under the conscience category. Especially in the metropolitan areas I believe legislators think their individual decisions upon matters are lost in the volume and hodge-podge of the population.

When a city such as Portland sends 23 legislators to Salem, even though they may represent districts within Multnomah county, there is a tendency by the public to address them as a group, and they may lose their identity as individuals voting upon individual measures. This is, it seems to me, an unhealthy situation which contributes to neglect and unconcern by those members.

I hope that you will continue to contact me concerning legislation which concerns and vitally affects you.

Sen. Tony Yturri Sees Recurring Problems

quired for the safety of the employee.

Bill Would Raise Bid Limit

House Bill 1032 raises from $2000 to $5000 the amount of purchases of a first class school district may make without advertising for bids.

There have been several instances where a nurse or a doctor has volunteered to render medical aid to the victim of a traffic accident only to find at some later date that person aided was suing such doctor for negligence.

School Support Raise Seen

Numerous bills have been introduced increasing the basic school support to local districts. The amounts vary from $130 per census child to $150 per child. It is hard to predict what will be done, but it is certain that there will be an increase and that it will not be less than $130.

In theory this should relieve property taxes somewhat, but I doubt that it will because the local school budgets go up more each year than the increased amount of basic school support. Much of this is due, of course, to increased enrollment, but other costs also increase.

Property taxes are affected by the actions of school boards, and this should be borne in mind. I examined the records of the construction of two almost identical schools. In one case, the cost was $9.34 a square foot, while the other cost $18.54 a square foot. Certainly the taxpayers in the latter district were treated more roughly than in the first district.

Waiting Period Increased

Young engaged couples should be advised that under House Bill 1043 the waiting period for obtaining a marriage license will be increased from 3 to 7 days; and if Senate Bill 124 passes, it will be illegal for any person under 21 to drink any kind of alcoholic liquor unless it be in a private residence and in the presence of at least one of the person's parents.

It would seem that there is little likelihood of parents handing out liquor to their children.

Bob Smith and I have been working diligently upon the "fire protection assessment" law, and a public hearing will be held at the Capitol at 9 a.m. Feb. 14 for those interested. We believe we will be successful in holding the line and preventing unreasonable assessments.

tional value for farm land, (2) land in the process of being leveled and prepared for later use and (3) short on irrigation water.

Another threat that had been voiced to get grain farmers in line with the government's proposal was to dump surplus grain on the market in such quantities as to depress the price to as low as $1 per bushel.

Farm Bureau Plans

Hobson said the Farm Bureau vigorously opposes any move away from the market price system and a return where there had been a previous departure. If the farmer is to enjoy freedom he must accept competition, he said.

In closing, he said, "We believe that the centralization of power in the federal government, the move to socialize America, the apathy of the American people toward this trend and the apparent lack of responsibility on the part of individual citizens are among the greatest dangers threatening our republic and our system of private competitive enterprise. Freedom must not be sacrificed for a guaranteed security."

TWO EMERGENCY CASES TREATED AT HOSPITAL

Keith Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cannon, was treated Saturday at Malheur Memorial hospital for lacerations of the left cheek. The youth was injured when he fell from a roof. He was released following treatment.

Palmer Norland, route 2, Parma, was admitted to the hospital Sunday suffering from injuries he sustained in a one-car accident north of Adrian. His automobile went out of control on a curve and rolled into a barrow pit. His condition was reported as good Wednesday afternoon by hospital attendants.

VISIT FROM BAKER

Donald J. Leuck and Frank J. Leuck, Sr., of Baker were weekend guests of their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Johnson.

Hospital payroll expense today amounts to about two-thirds of all hospital costs.

Spring Bull Sale Dated Feb. 21-22 At Fairgrounds

Seventy-five bulls have been consigned to the 14th annual spring bull sale by the Eastern Oregon Hereford Breeders association, according to George Bain, secretary. The show and sale will be at the fairgrounds in Ontario Feb. 21-22.

L. J. Marks of Fossil, Ore., will judge the bulls at 1 p.m. Thursday afternoon after they have been carefully screened for quality and soundness by a sifting committee of D. E. Jones, Jun-tura; Dal Whiffen, Meridian; and Dr. L. M. Koger, Ontario.

Clayt Tschirgi will auctioneer the sale starting at 12:30 Feb. 22. There will be 22 consignors from eastern Oregon and western Idaho. Bain says that the quality of consignments has continually improved each year with several herd bull prospects being sold the past few sales.

Malheur County 4-H Leaders association will again serve lunch on the grounds.

Len Church to Retire After 52 Years Service

but came after them the following year when he decided to remain in England.

Since his schooling was limited to grade school and two years of high school, Mr. Church decided to further his education he would study engineering at Lincoln Technical college in England and this he did after he was 30 years of age.

In 1938 he began to realize that his family would be better off in their own home country as everything in Europe pointed to war. So the Churches returned to the United States.

Soon after their arrival, Mr. Church again went to work for the Holly company and American Crystal company in California and for Amalgamated at their Twin Falls plant.

The family came to Nyssa in 1940, two years after the local refinery began operations. He has worked in the same capacity as assistant superintendent since that time.

Mr. Church says he has missed only one campaign in the 52 years he has been in the sugar industry. Many times he would take on produce contract jobs between campaigns.

The Churches reside at 118 North Fifth street in Nyssa. They have four children, Royce Cole, Jack, Tom and Bob, who are all Nyssa residents. They also have 11 grandchildren in their home town.

Lennie says he plans to stay active and feels that he is "too young" to retire completely. He hopes to be in some kind of business somewhere. He is interested in amateur astronomical work and plans to continue in this line. He says he also hopes to get in a lot of golf games as that is one of his favorite pastimes.
