New books going into circulation Saturday, March 2, at Malheur county library include the following:

"The Common Sense Series" includes books written for persons with no special knowledge of the subject in a manner intelligible to anyone with an average education and are reasonably objective, while giving a considered view. The three new titles are:

"Common Sense About Young Offenders" by W. David Willis.

"Common Sense About a Starving World" by Ritchie Calder.

"Common Sense About Christian Ethics" by Edward Carpenter.

"The Long Shadow of Little Rock" by Daisy Bates. One of the protagonists in the Little Rock crisis relates her own personal experiences and those of the nine Negro children involved in the desegregation struggle.

"Financing Medical Care" edited by Helmut Schoeck. Fifteen essays on the thesis that government controlled medical care is not working in Great Britain, Europe and Australia.

"Portrait of India" by Bradford Smith. Traveling throughout the country, the author and wife became acquainted with every phase of life in India—the people, the animals, the means of transportation, art and architecture and the powers of the Yogis and other mystics.

Explains Effect of Law Changes

Dellin Erickson gave a brief background of the welfare program and the proposed changes in income tax laws, together with the effects the changes would bring.

He said if disallowance of contributions up to 5 percent of taxable income were made, it would adversely affect churches, Scout organizations, Heart fund, TB Seal sales, Cancer fund, etc., because many present givers did not donate this high a proportion of their income.

Welfare Costs Rising

Erickson said Oregon adopted ADC-UN (aid to dependent children of unemployed parents) in 1961 to get more federal aid and cut down the amount of state and local funds used. Under the general assistance plan in use in the state prior to that time 70 percent of public welfare costs were borne by the state and 30 percent by the county with payments averaging $65 a month for a family of five. And three year residence was required for eligibility.

Under the plan adopted in 1961 the federal government paid approximately 50 percent, state 35 percent and county 15 percent. It was considered an emergency measure in a period of high unemployment in Oregon.

Under the plan the same family of five (previously getting $65) was now getting $180 per month. Residence requirement under this program is only one year to qualify permanently.

Oregon is one of 15 states adopting this plan. It is also the only one of the western states using the plan and as a result the welfare case load is growing very rapidly.

He cited as an example the following case: a migrant laborer and family come to Oregon in April to work in the crops and remain through the October harvest. The laborer then applies for general assistance (for which there is no residence time limit requirement). Then in April he can permanently qualify for the higher amount under ADC-UN. Quite frequently, in the larger families, the welfare check is larger than the amount he could earn if gainfully employed, thus reducing any incentive to work.

School Board Head Explains Need Of Proposed Building

(Continued from Page 1) the biology department full and adequate facilities of its own. At present biology shares two classrooms with chemistry, physics and general science; and there is simply not enough room for these science classes which are so important today.

Bond Issue Set at $95,000

In addition to the $55,000 for the ag building, the remodeling and equipping of these two classrooms will cost an additional $34,000. These costs plus architect, legal and contingency will bring the proposed bond issue to $95,000. It will cost the taxpayer about three-fourths of one mill a year for 15 years to retire the bonds, or about $1.85 per year for each $10,000 worth of property.

The school board has studied these problems from every angle and we feel that this is the most desirable and economical plan that can be presented to meet our needs at the high school level for many years to come.

On behalf of the school board I urge every registered voter of the school district to vote Monday, March 4, 1963, at the little theater of the high school between the hours of 2 and 8 p.m.
