Loans to Students Reach $1 Million At Oregon State

Student loans have become a million-dollar business at Oregon State university, it was reported recently by Dr. James H. Jensen, university president.

Of the $1,186,773 available at Oregon State, some $1,043,862 is in loan to students.

Some $655,000 will be loaned this year, compared to $450,000 last year, President Jensen said. Loan periods range from 30 days to several years.

The late R. A. Booth, state senator from Eugene, began the OSU student loan fund with a $500 grant in 1911. Resources available have increased 2,631 times during its 52-year existence.

J. Frank Jonasson, student loan officer, said a $15,000 fund is available for emergency loans of 30 days. Average loans are for $75. The fund rotated more than 10 times the past year for a $107,000 total.

Collection problems are small, Jonasson said. Delinquent accounts total less than 1 percent. Nearly 20 percent of all students enrolled at Oregon State have made use of the fund at one time or another.

To continue the loan program at its present pace, an additional $40,000 will be needed next year. The State Scholarship commission is expected to provide funds to make a matching amount available for additional National Defense Student Loans.

Regular and special funds available total $170,490 from which a freshman may borrow $300; sophomore, $450; junior, $600; and senior or graduate, $700.

A total of $766,400 in National Defense Student Loans can be borrowed for repayment within 10 years after graduation, with 3 percent interest beginning one year after graduation. An individual student may borrow up to $1,000 a year from this source.

Former Nurse at Malheur Memorial Saves Life of Injured Man in Seattle

The following item was sent to the Journal by James M. Burns in Portland. The article was clipped from the Seattle Times, dated Friday, March 15, 1963.

Title of the story is "Nurse Who Saved Man Shuns Praise" and involves Mrs. David Stone who will be remembered in Nyssa as Mickie Milosh, former director of nurses at Malheur Memorial hospital. She was on duty as head nurse from Feb. 1, 1962, until shortly before her marriage to David J. Stone on Sept. 29 last year when the couple left for Seattle.

The Seattle Times story reads: "An expectant mother, credited with saving the life of a man whose throat was cut March 10 in a traffic accident, shrugged praise for her act.

"Knowing What to Do" "It was just a matter of knowing what to do and doing it," said Mrs. David Stone, 25, a registered nurse. "Anyone who had a basic first aid course could have done it."

"Mrs. Stone, her husband and two friends witnessed the accident. Morris M. Morton, 18, a Marine and driver of the wrecked car, suffered a cut jugular vein.

"Everyone was just standing around saying that the poor man was dying and someone should do something," Mrs. Stone said. "It was dark, but someone had a small light and I could see the huge cut in the Marine's neck.

"I bent over and closed the opening with my hand. I knew he was going to need all the blood we could save."

"The injured man was conscious. Someone asked Mrs. Stone if she knew what she was doing.

"She's a nurse," her husband snapped. "She ought to know."

Marine Grateful for Aid

"Mrs. Stone recalled: 'The Marine had seemed scared to death. But when he heard I was a nurse, he looked up at me as though he were grateful someone was doing something. I won't forget that look.'

Farm Anti-Picketing Senate Bill Aimed At Stranger Picketing

Senate Bill 406 is needed by agriculture in Oregon, according to Harold Beach, president of the Oregon Farm Bureau federation.

Beach said the bill is aimed at preventing stranger picketing of farms at time of harvest. He explained that one of the techniques used by labor unions in California in the past few years has been to bring in pickets who have never worked on the farm being picketed.

The purpose of SB 406 is to prevent this from happening in Oregon, Beach said. The Farm Bureau president explained the heart of the bill is the provision asking that any worker must be employed for a period of 15 days prior to going out on strike.

It seems rather odd that such a bill should have to be introduced, Beach said, since the purpose of a strike is to protest against labor conditions or pay. If a person has never worked on the job in question, he would hardly be in a position to complain.

Beach said that since the procedure for stranger picketing is allowed under the laws of the state, farmers must take precautions to protect their interests. He said farm strikes could be very disastrous to specialty crops and to personal income of growers who could lose their entire crop by such actions on the part of strikers.

How do we thank such a man as this?

The railroad hat is deceptive. Bill Schupbach is a lifetime Standard Oiler, retired. His grandfather, father and uncle were Standard Oilers before him.

Before retiring, Bill was a refinery foreman. His company retirement plan gives him security, and time for model railroading, but his big enthusiasm is still Standard Oil Company.

Bill keeps close to us, and we to him. He is invited to our picnics and parties, receives our publications, and is still one of the "Boys" at the refinery. He knows that he belongs.

It isn't the spoken thanks that do it; but your lasting interest in a man, your counting him as a person and not a statistic, these are the things that live his spirit.

We have thousands of such fine men and women on our retirement payroll. If you know some of them, you know that they, too, are ardent Standard Oilers.

Planning ahead to serve you better
