Annual Festival For Homemakers Slated April 25

"The Future and Your Family" is the theme for the 16th annual Homemakers Festival to be held April 25 at the Harper high school auditorium, Mrs. Dwight Mason, county advisory committee chairman announced this week.

This theme was suggested by Mrs. Edna Kendall of Ontario, secretary of the committee, and is in keeping with the Home Economics Extension program of the past year.

Purpose of the festival is to enable extension unit members to share with all Treasure Valley homemakers the information gained through their participation in the extension program.

Eleven Home Economics Extension units from Jordan Valley to Oregon Slope will have displays on understanding teenagers, developing responsibility in children, more costumes for less money, buffet meals, low-calorie meals, stretching the food dollar, plus ideas called "eye-openers" and Christmas decorations.

Seven other units will assist with such hostessing duties as registration, name tags, program covers, etc. The Tri-Valley Extension unit is making the extension unit emblem with the purpose of explaining the purpose and origin of the Home Economics Extension groups.

Mrs. Mason extends an invitation to all Treasure Valley homemakers to set aside April 25 to help them celebrate their 16th year.
