- "Modern English and Its Heritage" by Margaret M. Bryant. A new edition revised in light of linguistic changes.
- "Gabriela, Clove and Cinnamon" by Jorge Amado. Comedy of manners in a small Brazilian town.

"Viruses" by K. M. Smith. The director of a virus research unit at Cambridge university answers questions commonly asked by the layman.

"Automation and Technological Change" by the American Assembly, Columbia university. Nine specialists cover the wide range of an increasingly important subject in an attempt to eliminate some of the exaggeration, suspicion and mystery that have surrounded it.

"The American Secretary of State" by Alexander De Conde. A historical study of the office traces the development of the secretary's role from Robert Livingston, appointed by the Continental Congress, to Dean Rusk.

"A Long and Happy Life" by Reynolds Price. A sensitive story of a young girl's compromised dream.

"The Lane of Eternal Stability" by K. C. Wu. A story of three generations during the turbulent years when China changed from Yellow Dragon to Red Star.

"Men and Decisions" by Lewis L. Strauss. Admiral Strauss relates the stories behind some of the major decisions of our times made by top governmental figures.

"The Fourth Floor" by Earl E. T. Smith. The U.S. ambassador to Cuba from 1957 to 1959 gives an account of Castro's successful uprising to develop the thesis that the career men of the State department were responsible for the policy that brought the present Cuban regime to power.

"Renoir: My Father" by Jean Renoir. A memoir filled with affection, warmth and perception.

"Project Plowshare" by Ralph Sanders. Development of the peaceful uses of nuclear explosions.

"Finding My Way" by Borghild Dahl. The author tells of her experiences in trying to adjust to blindness.

"A Tour of the White House with Mrs. John F. Kennedy" by Perry Wolff. A book based on the television program with the same name, illustrated with more than 150 photographs.

"Exploring the Great Basin" by Gloria Griffin Cline. A comprehensive account of the Great Basin from its discovery by white men in 1776 to the time its true physiological nature was finally understood, from Fremont, on his second expedition, gave it the name it bears today.

"The Soviet Union Today" by Kenneth R. Whiting. Addressed to the general reader, this book summarizes the geography, racial structure, history, ideology, government, military forces, economics and education of the Soviet Union.

"Problems of Parents" by Dr. Benjamin Spock. A book that brings experience and wisdom to the easing of family tensions.

"The Glass-Blowers" by Daphne DuMaurier. Portrayed against the colorful background of France at the time of the Revolution, this novel tells the story of the rise and fall of the Busson family and their business.

"One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich" by Alexander Solzhenitsyn. A Soviet novel of life in Stalin's forced labor camps.

Work Smarter . . . Not Harder

By BERNICE STRAWN, Extension Home Management Specialist

Are you running your household or is it running you? In the book, "How to Manage Yourself," written for business executives, the author insists that "too many managers fail to manage themselves. As a result, their business limps along."

Couldn't this apply to home managers too?

This book goes on to urge all business managers to have a schedule. If it's good for business, how about your business of running a home?

Homemakers attending our OSU Extension workshops can vouch that a schedule is practical because they've tried it. They find they accomplish more, eliminate hurry, worry and fatigue, and save time.

SPILLS IN THE BATHROOM

... such as perfume, hair dye, permanent wave lotion or drugs, may stain floors and other surfaces. Put a protective wax coating on shelves, floors and other surfaces. Spills will be easier to wipe up.

ELECTRIC BLANKETS

... are due for a summer vacation. Wash them before storing to keep them fresh and to discourage moths.

Dry cleaning is NOT recommended because of possible damage to insulation around the wires. Pre-treat any spots before washing the blanket. Fill washer with lukewarm water; add a mild soap. Let blanket soak for 10 minutes; then agitate for one minute; spin for just two minutes. Next fill washer with lukewarm rinse water; agitate again for one minute and spin two minutes.

To dry, hang blanket lengthwise over a clothes line. Change position frequently so it will dry evenly. Dry in the shade, not in the sun.

You can dry it in the dryer, if you're careful. Protect the plug with tape or fasten a cotton bag over it. Pre-heat the dryer for five minutes, then add blanket and several bath towels to serve as a buffer. Tumble for 15 minutes, then finish drying as described before, on the clothes line.

LIGHTLY STARCH linen napkins if you want to prevent shedding of lint on your guests' dark suits and dresses.

YOUR ELECTRIC FRYPAN

... is ideal for cooking rhubarb sauce. Add sugar and water; set the dial just a mite below boiling temperature. Rhubarb will cook nicely; every piece will remain whole. It's the rolling boil that makes it mushy.

That tired-all-the-time feeling seems to plague most mothers of small children. Have you ever made a time-energy budget for your particular "income" of both? It's just like spending money income. If you don't have a plan, you can't possibly come out even.

Give priority to most important jobs but be sure to save time for rest even if only a few minutes a day. A short rest is like money in the bank and pays dividends, too.

BRICK FIREPLACES usually are due for a cleaning at this season. Use a 10 percent solution of muriatic acid which you can get from the drug store. Scrub with a brush and rinse well with clear water. This acid will remove soot and white spots from rough brick. It can also eat holes in your clothing so take precautions. Wear rubber gloves if you have them.

OVERDRYING OF CLOTHES in a dryer is a common cause of wrinkling and static electricity in many manmade fabrics. If a garment has an elastic band, don't wait until the elastic is dry before taking it out. By this time, the rest of the garment will be over dry. Let the elastic finish drying outside the dryer.

SPRUCING UP FOR SPRING sometimes includes painting articles around the house which small children might chew on. Be sure you use a non-lead-base paint. The National Safety Council says that lead poisoning is one of the most hideous childhood afflictions. The fatality rate is extremely high—one in three children who are poisoned by lead die.

And those who survive may suffer permanent brain injury. Use care in selecting paint for nursery furniture, play pens, tools, chairs and window sills. There is no really effective antidote for lead poisoning.
