

Tri-Valley Extension Unit Members Meet for Luncheon at Folkman Home

By Mrs. O. P. Council

SUNSET VALLEY—Tri-Valley Homemakers unit met Friday morning at the home of Mrs. George Folkman. Sixteen women and two children were present for a low-calorie luncheon.

The lesson was given by Mmes. M. Atagi, Frank Holub and Wilbur Chapin. The luncheon menu consisted of an uncooked cheese consisted of a fruit bowl, molded shrimp dish, vegetables with a dip and crackers and an uncooked cheese cake. Leaders stressed points including retaining basic foods, getting necessary proteins and vitamins, eliminating most sweets and fats, not skipping meals and including satiety foods.

They stated that dieting may be forever as when a person grows older caloric needs decline. They advised to use judgment in preparation of foods and make them look appealing. Charts of caloric counts were distributed.
