NHS'ers Select New Cheerleaders

(From the Nyssa High Bulldog)
Five peppy misses from the sophomore and junior classes won the positions of varsity cheerleaders. Fourteen girls vied for the positions in an assembly held May 2 during homeroom period.

Ann Cleaver, Marilyn Gonyer, Susan Holmes, Vicki Newman and Cheri Okano were victorious in securing the honor of leading yells during the games of the 1963-64 athletic seasons.

Other junior and sophomore girls trying out were Evelyn Cleaver, Sylvia Cleaver, Cookie Cole, Sally Holmes, Judi Moncur, Carol and Mary Pond, Linda Reece and Barbara Smit.

Before the assembly ended, the outgoing cheerleaders led the student body in the school song, three of them for the last time. Ann Cleaver and Cheri Okano, who will be returning next year, joined Mary Evans, Ginny Lewis and Dickie Servoss for the traditional song.

Mrs. James Skeen's Younger Students To Present Recital

Costumes depicting the music being played will add a bit of fun and color to the annual spring piano recital to be given by Mrs. James Skeen's younger students at 4 p.m. Sunday, May 26, in the LDS stake house.

Mark Grieg, dressed as an Indian, will open the program, followed by Dutch and Spanish dolls, Ellen Ashby and Marsha Weeks. Shan Moss, as a 1975 graduate, will play "Pomp and Circumstance." Ballet dancers Pamela Skeen and Debby Hendricks will close this group of selections.

Val Nielsen and Sharlene Kido, as a little fairy, will begin the second group of numbers. Sharon Sadamori will take spectators to a barn dance, while Joanne Jeffries, LaRae Ashby and Christine Kynaston will take the audience on vicarious trips to Mexico, Holland and Norway. Kenny Wright, a sailor, will play "Ships Ahoy," a contemporary composition.

Alvina Bell and Marceal Pett, award winners from the advanced students "Tchaikovsky" recital held last Sunday, will play their numbers as the finale.

Achievement and progress awards will also be given to outstanding students in the younger group.
