What happened to my favorite?

As a very young boy, I recall a truly wonderful candy but, across the mists of time, I can't even remember its name. It was divine! There is nothing like it today. It tasted something like butter-scotch but—oh—so much better. It came in a can with a bright-colored label. Nothing—ever—was so good. Now it's gone forever.

I know that years cast a nostalgic spell around the things of our youth. But even rose-colored memory can't explain away the tantalizing taste of this long-forgotten candy. Why aren't these bright containers sitting on the shelves where they used to sit? What happened?

For that matter, what happened to Obak cigarettes, Force, Pearline, Sapolio, Peerless automobiles and a lot of other wonderful things that were bought by thousands who were young when I was young? Why can't we buy them today?

I'll tell you what happened. It's very simple. The people who made these fine products just didn't keep everlastingly at the job of telling the world about them.

The results? Many good things went out of our world because their life blood—advertising—dried up.

But, praise be, advertising is keeping many other good things ever available to us. Here's to advertising! Never sell it short. It pays to be advertised at.
