I'm Fine . . . I'm Fine!

There's nothing whatever the matter with me;
I'm just as healthy as I can be.
I have arthritis in both my knees.
And when I talk, I talk with a wheeze.
My pulse is weak and my blood is thin.
But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.
My teeth eventually have to come out
And my diet, I hate to think about.
I'm overweight and can't get thin.
But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.
Arch supports I have for my feet
Or I wouldn't be able to walk on the street.
Sleep is denied me every night
And every morning I'm a sight.
My memory is failing; my head's a spin;
I'm practically living on aspirin.
But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.
The moral is, as this tale we unfold,
That for you and me, who are growing old,
It's better to say I'm fine, with a grin,
Than to let folks know the shape we're in.

JUST WHO MAKES AN ORGANIZATION A SUCCESSFUL ONE

Xvxn though my typewriter is an old model, it works quite well except for one of the keys. I have wished many times that it worked better. It is true that there are 46 keys that function well enough, but just one key not working makes the difference.
An organization is like a typewriter. You may say to yourself, I am only one person. But YOU make a difference. To be effective, the group needs every member's active participation.
So, the next time you think your efforts are not needed, REMEMBER MY TYPewriter. XR, and say to yourself, "I am a key in this organization and I am needed very, very much."
This story of the misplaced "E" key was submitted to the Journal by Ole Drylund.

Pastor Accepts Call To Colorado Church; New Minister Named

The Rev. and Mrs. Noble V. Hunt have announced that they will conclude their ministry at the Bible Missionary church in Nyssa on Sunday, July 21.

They have accepted a call to pastor the denomination's church at Grand Junction, Colo.

The family arrived in Nyssa on July 8, 1960, and report a profitable and fruitful three-year ministry at the local church.

The Hunt couple, with their four children, will leave July 22 for Eldon, Mo., where they will be special vocalists for a camp meeting which will close on Aug. 4. The following Sunday, they will begin their pastoral work at the Colorado church.

The Rev. T. V. Russell and family of Greenville, Texas, will succeed the Hunts, with July 28 as the date scheduled for them to assume their pastoral duties in Nyssa.

Activities Reported By Nazarene Pastor

Members of Golden Hour Missionary chapter were hosts last Thursday evening at a barbecue picnic on the lawn at the Jim Langley home in rural Nyssa.

Thirty-two teenagers of the church held a Hawaiian luau Friday evening at the Bob Martin home in Nu Acres. Tables were decorated with fruit from the islands. Hawaiian fish dishes, salads and punch were served and lawn games were played.

On Tuesday evening at a softball game played in Nyssa south park, the teenage boys won over the Men's Fellowship group by a final score of 9-1. After the game the men treated the youngsters to donuts and punch.

According to the Rev. John Bullock, Floyd Rhoades, president of the Men's Fellowship organization, was charged with the only loss for the year.

Nyssa Chapel Rites Conducted Tuesday For Dennis E. Hild

The body of the deceased was found recently at the bottom of a training area fox hole near Ft. Gordon, Ga. Last report was that Army officials had not determined exact cause of death.

Army Private Hild was a son of Mrs. Florene S. Hild, former Apple Valley resident now living in Boise. He was born March 4, 1945, grew up in the Parma area, attended Parma and Fruitland high schools and enlisted in the U.S. Army in April. He was transferred to Ft. Gordon to take a communications course after completing basic training at Ft. Ord, Calif.

In addition to his mother, other survivors include a sister, Mrs. Shirley Isaacs of Boise; four brothers, Raymond of Boise, Bob and Joe of Fruitland and Karl of San Jose, Calif.

State, National Economies to Continue Uphill Climb, Reports OSU Outlook

State and national economies at mid-year show signs of continuing the uphill climb through 1963, reports M. D. Thomas, Oregon State university extension agricultural economist. Thomas makes his comments in the new Oregon Farm and Market Outlook circular now available from county extension offices.

Consumer, business and government spending are uniting to provide power to sustain the economy's climb, although the pace may slow some from the rapid rate of the past six months, he writes.

Predicts Increased Purchases

Prospective increases in business activity, along with further gains in population, employment and consumer incomes will lead to increased purchases of food and other farm products this year, Thomas believes.

However, these circumstances do not promise high prices and profits for abundant farm products. Yet they undoubtedly yield larger farm incomes and more off-farm job and investment opportunities than would be the case if the economy were static or declining, he said.

Latest surveys show consumers are still in the mood to buy more new cars than in 1962 and expect to step up purchases of appliances and other household equipment later in the year. Spending for food and accompanying services continues to be high.

Inventories Increase Slightly

Factory orders, especially for durable goods, have been coming in faster than a year earlier with the backlog of unfilled orders holding up despite increased output and unused capacity in some industries. Inventories have increased only slightly in the past year.

Markets for United States products are now absorbing fully a fifth more factory output than five years ago at prices little changed from that time, he noted. Business spending for new plants and equipment has been rising. Corporate profits before and after taxes have reached new highs. Earnings, dividends, savings and confidence have been high enough to bid stock prices up sharply, he pointed out.

Use of Credit Contributes

Confidence has also been high enough to put more than a trillion dollars worth of credit into use in this country. The ability and willingness to use credit and obligate future incomes has been one of the continuing contributors to economic growth in recent years, Thomas observed.

Employment has been setting new highs, but labor disputes, automation and a rapid increase in workers keeps unemployment up.

The shift from farm to off-farm employment is continuing with 13 off-farm jobs for every one on the farm. Fifty years ago the ratio was about two to one. This adjustment seems likely to continue as long as off-farm incomes are high in relation to farm incomes, Thomas said.

It Wasn't The Goths That Defeated Rome -- It Was The Free Circuses

LUXURIES, power, indulgence had made the once-tough Roman people soft. To stay popular, their emperors gave them more and more of the case they craved -- free bread, free circuses, easier living.

So the Romans softened up themselves for the ambitious, hard-working barbarians. And in 410 A. D. the greatest nation the world had ever seen was invaded and destroyed.

The greedy cry of "something for nothing," the whine of "somebody else should sacrifice, not me" -- could do exactly the same for this nation, NOW.
