Season on Most Upland Birds Opens September 7; Pheasants, Waterfowl, Quail to Be Set at August 20 Meeting

Most Deer Areas Opened From Sept. 28 To Oct. 28; Elk Hunt From Oct. 26 to Nov. 24

The Oregon game department has set opening and closing dates, with bag limits established, for most upland birds, deer and elk.

Scattergun nimrods can legally take to the field for doves and pigeons on Sept. 1 but have to wait until the following Saturday (Sept. 7) to go for chukars, grouse, sage hens and Hungarian partridge.

Youths Reminded Of Safety Course In Gun Handling

Young hunters, 17 years of age or under, are reminded by the game commission that if they intend to hunt this fall they must have in their possession a certificate of competency in the safe handling of firearms. This is a provision of the law passed by the Oregon legislature which became effective Jan. 1, 1962.

The law further states that any youngster 17 or under who desires to obtain a certificate of competency shall first satisfactorily complete a course in the safe handling of firearms.

The commission urges all youngsters who intend to hunt this fall and who do not have a certificate of competency to enroll in a hunter safety class immediately. Instructors are available in cities, towns and rural areas and many will be holding classes to qualify youngsters for the certificate.

If youngsters are in doubt about location of classes in their local area, they are requested to contact the nearest game license agent. He has been provided with a list of qualified instructors.

The statutes also provide that no youngster under the age of 12 shall be issued a big game tag, and no person under the age of 14 shall be permitted to hunt on lands other than his own or legal guardian, unless accompanied by an adult.

123 Pints of Blood Netted at Drawing; Donors Receive Pins

After the final donor was accepted at the Red Cross drawing held yesterday in Nyssa, totals revealed that 153 area residents reported to give their pint of blood.

However, there were 30 rejects, so with a net of 123 units, the quota was not reached by a total of 77 pints. Past records indicate that there were fewer donors reporting and more rejects than there had been for the past several years.

Dr. David W. Sarazin, chairman, has reported that four donors received one-gallon pins, including Stan Thompson, Othella Henderson, Henry Zobell and Dr. Sarazin.

Don Wilson received a two-gallon pin and Tom Church reached the three-gallon goal.

Baseball-for-Kids Advisers Express Thanks for a Most Successful Season

Dick Wilson, committee chairman of Baseball-for-Kids, says the season just ended was the biggest and best yet. More than 200 boys participated in the program and it is expected to expand next year.

He said that, on behalf of the other committee members and the boys, he wished to thank all those who had made the program possible.

Too many people helped to name them all, Wilson said, but the committee especially wished to thank: Lions club, Jaycees, Grain Millers' union and the Eagles for their cash donations to build the permanent bleachers at the fields.

Governor Mark Hatfield will be featured speaker at a program scheduled to begin at 8:30 and Robert Humphreys will serve as master of ceremonies. Music will be provided during the evening by the Silverstone band under direction of David Fillmore.

The Malheur County Republican Central committee will provide table service, rolls, butter, dessert, corn on the cob, coffee and punch.

The public is invited to attend this annual event.

The deer and elk seasons have been set and a synopsis of the rules and regulations can now be picked up at any dealer selling licenses.

Buck Deer and Elk Seasons
The general buck deer season will be from Sept. 28 through Oct. 20. As in the past, hunters will be restricted to bucks with forked horns west of the Cascades and east of the Cascades to those with visible antlers.

The unit permit season for taking antlerless deer will be Oct. 12 through Oct. 20, or one week shorter than last year. The number of unit permits to be issued will be lower than last year due to poor fawn production.

The general elk season will be Oct. 26 through Nov. 11 in the coast range but will extend through Nov. 24 in the rest of the state. Antlerless elk hunts in northeastern Oregon units will be almost the same as last year with 3200 permits to be issued.

TO LEAVE FOR MILWAUKIE

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Q. Smith and family plan to leave Nyssa on Aug. 23 to make their home in Milwaukie, Ore. Smith has been music instructor in the local schools for the past several years. He will assume similar duties at the beginning of the school term in Milwaukie.

Nyssa's Changing Street Scene

THIS CORNER at First and Main streets in Nyssa has been and is still undergoing drastic changes. There are actually three projects which have caused a great difference in appearance. First of all, what used to be a large patch of weeds is now a blacktopped parking lot, created by the city for public use. Another recent improvement, which cannot be appreciated in the photo but to Nyssans and travelers is a pleasing sight, is a new coat of paint recently applied to the railings and walls of the underpass on U.S. highway 20-28. Under Amalgamated Sugar company's silos and to the left of Swager Ford's big sign can be seen light-colored walls. These are inside partitions of the old Tensen-Van Gilse building which was pictured intact in the June 27 issue of the Journal. The structure is being razed by Bud Sappe and his crew of workmen. A check Wednesday revealed that about all that remains of the old landmark are the few second-story walls and the first floor. This location will eventually become a small city park. —Staff Photo.

Rinehart to Speak At Texas Meeting; Couple to Visit Son

Mayor and Mrs. Grant Rinehart left Monday morning for Texas where they will visit their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dirk Rinehart, stationed with the U.S. Army in San Antonio.

They were accompanied as far as Mt. Pleasant, Utah, by his mother, Mrs. Olivia Rinehart, who will visit her sister, Mrs. Henry Brady.

Mrs. Grant Rinehart plans to stay at the home of their children in San Antonio while the Nyssa mayor attends the American Municipal Congress annual convention in Houston.

Rinehart has been selected as one of the featured speakers and has chosen for his topic, "Benefits of Welfare Work Programs in Cities with Populations Under 25,000." He will also discuss the benefits to individuals receiving welfare checks if they are able to earn them.

He also plans to talk on the case of one individual and portray the results if he were allowed to learn to read, to operate machinery and be a part of a work program.

Representatives from cities all over the nation will be in attendance at the Houston meeting.

Area Music Students Plan to Leave Sunday For Lake Tahoe Camp

Ten students from this area, accompanied by Bob Q. Smith, former Nyssa music instructor, will leave by autos Sunday for Lake Tahoe where they will attend music camp, sponsored by the University of Nevada.

Clinicians during the session will be Clarence Sawhill of UCLA and Jester Hairston of Los Angeles. This will be the fifth consecutive year that a group of Nyssa students have attended.

The annual camp is a supplementary course for individual betterment in the field of music, Smith said. The students attend strictly by registration and following tryouts at the camp, are placed in groups according to ability. Registration deadline this year was June 25.

Nyssa students who plan to make the trip include Greg Nelson, Wayne Takami, Brad Maxfield, Bobby Smith, Scott Jeffries, JoAnn Strickland, Ona Lou Winchester and David Evans.

Other students accompanying them will be Steve Inouye of Homedale and Terry Yamada of Parma.

The week-long camp activities will be climaxed by a concert open to the public.

Nyssa Youth Leaves to Take Training For Weather Assignment in Antarctic

Ronald Stephen, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stephen of route 2, Nyssa, was notified recently that he had been assigned to the Antarctic region by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Weather Bureau.

He left Monday morning for Washington, D.C., for an orientation session and from there will go to Sterling, W. Va., for an intensive training program. His duties at one of the weather stations near the south pole will begin in approximately three months.

RONALD STEPHEN

Stephen was graduated from Nyssa high school with the class of 1958, attended Oregon State university in Corvallis and received his master's degree in June this year. He has three brothers, James O. with the State Fish and Game department at Burns, Roger who is in the plumbing business at Canoga Park, Calif., and Larry who plans to attend George Fox college at Newberg this fall.

Physics, Mathematics Mandatory
The young Nyssan will go on the weather assignment as a physical meteorologist. He will be trained in and responsible for specialized programs which may include studies in energy balance, radio-metersonde, ozone, water vapor, snow density and drift. A good academic background in physics and mathematics is mandatory.

Antarctica is a continent of six million square miles, almost as large as the United States and Europe combined. A sheet of glacial ice covers most of the rock, except where mountains rise as high as 15,000 feet and pierce the icy landscape.

The U.S. government through the National Science Foundation and cooperating agencies such as the Weather Bureau is supporting an active national research program on the continent.

Many Measurements Taken
Current and projected Antarctic observational measurement programs include taking standard meteorological surface and upper-air measurements.

His Prices Were 'Right'

THIS IS CHICK QUINOWSKI, Nyssa high school instructor and basketball coach, as he appeared via the airwaves last Friday morning on the Brammers' television set. He was a contestant on a taped recording of "The Price Is Right" shown on KTVB, channel 7, Boise. The Nyssan seemed very calm, as if he were an "old hand" at appearing on TV programs in New York. He was big winner until the last item going up for bid was priced in the $3,000 range and earned a lady contestant the right to reappear the following day. Included in Quinowski's winnings were a Polaroid camera, bedroom suite, collection of linens, large braided rug, hat and blouse coordinates for his wife. A bonus prize reaped shoes for both the Nyssa coach and his wife in a variety of styles and colors. His winnings totaled approximately $2,100. When speaking of the linen collection, a fellow Nyssan said, "I can see what Quinowski's relatives will get next Christmas!"

Two Million Acres of Sagebrush Land In Malheur County Infested by Larva; Good and Harm Both Seen as Result

BLM Sees Need for Grass Seeding to Prevent Noxious Weeds From Replacing Sagebrush

The caterpillar infestation of sage in eastern Oregon has brought different reactions from the livestock industry, the State Game department and the Bureau of Land Management.

The livestock industry sees it as a blessing and believes if all the sage were killed it would be a boon for them.

The game department sees it from the viewpoint of destroying food and cover for deer, antelope and sage grouse. They also feel with the removal of the sage that the land would rapidly erode from wind and water and thus leave no home for other wildlife not considered game but necessary for the natural balance for game to live.

The Bureau of Land Management thinks it might be a problem or a blessing, depending upon how rapidly it spreads, how potent a killer it is and how much time they would be allowed to get grass into the cleared areas.

Noxious Weeds May Take Over
Max Lieurance, head of the BLM office in Vale, told a Journal reporter Wednesday that about 2,000,000 acres in Malheur county were infested but that they did not yet know how effective the kill would be. He said that he could see where it might be a bad thing for the county if the sage were totally killed and a noxious weed took over the barren land before it could be seeded to grass.

The BLM has carried on a spraying program to kill the sage in the county but only as they could seed it to crested wheat grass. Lieurance said that last year 56,000 acres were sprayed in the county and 35,000 acres had already been reseeded. His figures were for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1963.

Inconspicuous at First
The culprit, or benefactor, depending upon the point of view, is a small moth larva about 3/8-inch long. It rolls a few leaves into a ball, apparently for a house, and feeds on the leaves along the stems. The infestation is rather inconspicuous at first but quickly reaches an acute stage.

Severely infested plants have a brownish-yellow appearance and are literally crawling with the larvae. Final effect on the plant is not yet known but in a similarly infested area of Lake county last year it killed the sage plant.

Infestation seems to be much greater on the sage on lower land, gradually decreasing as the elevation becomes higher.

State Game Director Phil Schneider says the greatest infestation is in Harney, Malheur, Grant, Wheeler, Crook and Deschutes counties.

The final effect will be watched with much interest by all.

Robert-Nyssa Razes Old Residence; Space to Provide Additional Parking

Another of Nyssa's old landmarks is about to disappear as the house located on Good avenue, between Roberts-Nyssa Motor company building and the Ken Renstrom agency, is now being razed.

The residence was sold recently by members of the Ward family to the Buick dealer garage.

According to information received from Audrey Ward, the 1 1/2-story structure was built in 1906 by Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Neathery, parents of Audrey's mother, the late Mrs. Ida B. Ward.

It was first occupied by members of the J. Boydell family who resided there until 1908 when they built their own home at 305 Good avenue, the present residence of Miss Eva Boydell.

Other Occupants Listed
J. H. Wolf, manager of the Malheur County bank, was the next occupant and lived in the house until 1914. J. M. Robinson, owner of a livery stable, then made the location his residence until 1917 when Mrs. Ida Ward became heir to the property through settlement of her parents' estate.

The Ward family resided in the house until 1955. Mrs. Ward then deeded the property to her children, Audrey, Frank, Earl and

A free barbecue luncheon will be served at the site, followed by a water show.

Chamber to Serve Teacher Luncheon Monday, Aug. 26

The Nyssa Chamber of Commerce will sponsor and serve the Teachers' Day luncheon on Monday, Aug. 26, at south city park. Plans made at the Wednesday noon meeting included School Superintendent W. L. McPartland extending the invitation to faculty members.

Walt Ford reported that funds for the sign to be erected on highway 20-26 west of Cairo were coming along very well and it would be erected soon.

SBA Program Next Week
Speaker at the meeting next week will be Oliver Davis, branch manager of the Small Business administration office in Boise.

Davis will outline the field of financing by this agency of the federal government and will remain for a question and answer session following adjournment at 1 p.m.

Chamber Secretary Ralph Lawrence said he understands the financing covers quite a wide field and that anyone interested in learning should attend the meeting. Lawrence thinks it is possible that something might be developed on the industrial ground north of town with the agency financing the greater part of the program.

Izaak Walton League Sets Aug. 12 Meeting; District Officer to Talk
